U. S. TROOPS KILL HUNDREDS OF JAPS

U. S. OFFICIAL

Washington, Jan. 5 (AP)

The War Department announced today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Philippine army repulsed a Japanese attack with heavy enemy losses, estimating that at least 700 of the enemy were killed.

American-Filipino losses were described in a communique as relatively small.

The War Department said:

"This was one of the most serious reverses suffered by the Japanese invaders since the war began."

The Japanese attack took place northwest of Manila.

At the same time the garrison of Corregidor fortress shot down four more Japanese bombers in beating off the fourth successive air attack on the fortress.

IN 3-HOUR ATTACK

This raised officially reported enemy plane losses over Corregidor to 15.

The communique said four additional Japanese planes were hit but their destruction was not confirmed.

Fifty-two bombers took part in the attack, which continued three hours.

Both the land battle on Luzon Island and the latest air raid on Corregidor took place Sunday.

Gen. MacArthur reported that his forces crushed the attack, presumably in Pampanga province northwest of Manila, in escaping an attempted enemy trap.

The Japanese, MacArthur said, undertook to crush the greatly outnumbered defenders between two invading forces operating as a pincers from north and south. But he added that when the trap was closed "American and Philippine troops were not in the jaws."

JAP COUP FAILS

The communique said that Japanese strategy thus failed in this instance, necessitating the frontal attack which likewise failed.

The attack on Corregidor, like the onslaught of the previous day in which four enemy planes were shot down, failed to inflict material damage and casualties were said to be slight.

As far as could be deduced from dispatches, the Japanese were in feverish haste to complete their conquest of the Philippines in order to release large numbers of troops for major operations elsewhere.

Text of war department communique follows:

"Philippine theater: A strong Japanese attack upon American and Philippine troops northwest

Chinese Rush to Malaya

London, Jan. 5 (AP)

Veteran Chinese troops are believed to be on their way to Malaya to help block the Japanese drive toward Singapore, British sources said today.

Military observers said British troops in Malaya had been forced to retreat not by more efficient Japanese fighting but by superior numbers and British inability to defend a wide front. This situation, they said, could be remedied by Chniese infantry supported by British artillery and motorized forces.

These sources said such an assignment for Chinese forces was a likely first step of the unified southwest Pacific command under Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell.

They said the call on Chinese manpower was for aid in a crisis until Britain and the United States can rush men and arms to the Far East. It probably was worked out during the recent visits to Chnngking of Wavell and Maj.-Gen. George H. Brett, United States Army Air Corps chief, who is Wavell's aide in the unified command, they added.

Chinese forces already have bolstered the British in Burma, on the flank of the Malay front.

Leather Goods Heir Dies in Boat Fire

GLEN COVE, N. Y., Jan. 5 (INS)—Joseph Harvey Ladew, Jr., 41, heir to a leather goods fortune amassed by his late father, died today in a fire that swept his 100-foot schooner, the Columbia. Ladew, once active in motor boat and auto racing, customarily spent the winter aboard his vessel.

Report Finland To Quit

London, Jan. 5 (AP)

The Helsinki newspaper Suomen Sosialidemoratti said this morning the present time "seems a suitable opportunity to break off military operations" against Russia, Reuters reported today. Referring to Field Marshal Baron Karl Gustaf Mannerheim's statement at the end of November that Finland's strategic goal almost had been reached, the newspaper said the goal appeared now to have been achieved as several important towns had been occupied since that time.

"Since then our troops have not launched any offensive operations," the paper added.

Great Britain announced Dec. 6 it was at war with Finland, Hungary and Rumania because they persisted in fighting her Russian ally. But thus far no military action has been reported against the Finns by the British.

Before that declaration, both Britain and the United States brought diplomatic pressure to bear on Finland in an effort to stop her war against Russia but Finland, on last Nov. 12, stated in a note to the United States its war against Russia still was defensive.

The Helsinki government advised the United States that Finland did not wish to continue the fight against Russia any longer than vital security demanded.

Since going to war against Russia June 26, 1941, Finland has recovered substantially all the territory it was forced to concede to Russia after the 1939-40 winter war and has pushed on into eastern Karelia.

YANKS AT CORREGIDOR PROVE TOUGH TO JAPS

By AUSTEN LAKE

Tough-jawed, sun-bitten men in mustard brown of the American and Filipino army peered skyward today from under their dish helmets firing long snouted anti-aircraft pieces as Japanese squadrons continued to pour high explosive on the Fortress of Corregidor.

The bastions—big rocks, which command Manila Bay—are thick with deep recesses. But the men who man the guns, perforce, are in the open.

The explosive capsules which the Japs rained down were fashioned mostly from American scrap sold to Tokyo in those complacent, uncontrolled merchandising days when the U. S. was following a conciliatory policy. And now, as the beleaguered soldiers of Corregidor and the supply bases behind MacArthur's mainland lines knew, the Japs were handing it back.

Page of new photographs of Corregidor defenses, with diagram of the fortress' underground strength, will be found on Page 21.

DELAYED ACTION

They were, as reports show clearly, mostly demolition bombs of heavy 500 and 1000-pound caliber, thick, steel-mounted missiles which penetrated deeply with delayed action that rocked the fort's concrete foundations and sheered off stone facing by the sheer power of the blast. A few of the garrison died, 13 killed and 35 wounded in the first attack, unannounced others yesterday and more today, but the garrison continued to fire, swiftly rotating barrages which burned holes in the night sky and left powder-puff blobs studding the air during daytimes. Men and more men were available, but the guns and their firing emplacements were virtually irreplaceable.

So today and tomorrow the men of Corregidor scan the skies wistfully, waiting for the rescue that must come from that direction, if it is to come at all—squadrons of swift U. S. fighters to spit ten-fold hate into the big-bodied Jap bombers, American combat planes which will knock them down faster than they can be replaced. Like thirst-parched men in an arid desert, like marooned and starving mariners on a remote island, like accident victims in a surgical ward awaiting

BRITISH BATTLE TANK DRIVE FOR SINGAPORE

SINGAPORE, Jan. 5, (AP)

British imperial rtoops in northwestern Malaya, forced to fall back from positions below Ipoh under fresh Japanese hammer blows, fought feirely today to halt the taku-led invaders on a new line established farther south.

Announcement the battle lines had inched nearer to Singapore during the week end coincided with disquieting news that the Japanese had gained ground in their efforts to win control of Borneo by effecting a landing at Weston on the northwest coast.

Weston, in British North Borneo, is about 170 miles north of Miri, Sarawak, the British-protected domain of the White Rajah Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, where the Japanese first gained a foothold on the island Dec. 17.

Since then they have captured Kuching, capital of Sarawak.

(Dispatches from Melbourne during the week-end disclosed that Japanese planes had twice bombed the Australian air force

CHINESE CELEBRATE SLAUGHTER OF JAPS

By SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, Jan. 5 (AP)

Firecrackers were discharged and gongs sounded triumphantly in the streets of Chungking today to celebrate what the Chinese proclaimed a great victory over the Japanese at Changsha.

The Chinese declared a junction had been effected by the Chinese Changsha garrison and the troops sent to its relief, and that a Chinese cordon had been drawn about the Japanese force which had suffered 52,000 casualties in three days in a "catastrophic debacle."

The Japanese, dependent on airborne supplies, are continuing attempts to break out of the trap, Chinese said.

HITLER UNMASKED:

Hess Hails Nazis' Betrayal of Reds

By PIERRE J. HUSS

(Copyright, 1942. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited.)

THE men who heard Hitler's plan to betray Russia walked out in a sort of trance. They were carrying a great secret, sworn to silence and pledged to the task of preparing the military forces as well as the Reich itself for the job of mastering Soviet Russia. It overwhelmed them, keeping their minds in uneasy suspense and the nerves in a high-strung state.

Goering drove away in his baby blue car to his princely estate in the snow-covered woods out in Karinhall, some fifty miles from Berlin, and played, like a good father, with his baby daughter

Pierre Huss

He wallowed on the floor and let the child crawl over him, shrieking and laughing until the actress mother, Emmy Sonneman of one-time film and stage fame, came to take her away for an afternoon nap.

It gave Goering a chance to sit at his great desk in the hunting room with the huge windows and figure out the staggering job facing his Luftwaffe for the coming spring.

A few miles distant, over the woods and hills of the same Schorfheide area, Joe Goebbels was home for the day like a faithful husband visiting wife and children in his Bogensee villa, a low rambling building with a touch of the Spanish.

His still pretty but fading blonde Madga, mother of five children by him and a son by a first husband, had put on her prettiest dress in expectation of the Fuehrer.

He was coming out there for dinner, as he frequently does, and the children were on their best behavior to play with him before going to bed. It was all so familiar, and they all knew just what to do.

Pierre J. Huss, for eight years chief Berlin correspondent of International News Service, says Adolf Hitler on Dec. 15, 1940, told of his plan to betray Soviet Russia by treacherous attack. He carried it out six months later.

Exclusive

Goebbels tood in front of the blazing fire on the hearth and stared at the woods out beynd the French windows. He had much on his mind, what with the great new task of soon letting loose the flood gates of Nazi passion and pent-up bitterness against Bolshevists and Communists and keeping in mind the dates and charms of film and stage stars back there in the city of Berlin.

Ribbentrop returned to his office and lit a cigar, coldly assured within himself that the Fuehrer thought highly of him. The military went over to Bendlerstrasse for a consultation with key men of the general staff but the moment had not yet come to tell them the things in mind.

Strategic plans in any case were filed away against Russia in the

20 TO 44 REGISTER ON FEB. 16

Washington

Jan. 5 (AP)

President Roosevelt today set Feb. 16 for registration of all male citizens of the nation between the ages of 20 and 44 who have not registered previously.

Men in this age group will be subject to military service.

The date was fixed in a proclamation. It made no mention of registration of men from 45 through 64, who are to be registered later on but who will be exempt from service with the armed forces under present legislation.

In his proclamation, the Chief Executive noted that this and other registrations under the Selective Service act "will be required to insure victory, final and complete, over the enemies of the United States."

The registration will apply to all male citizens and some non-citizens born on or after Feb. 17, 1897, and on or before Dec. 31, 1921. It is to take place not only in the United States but also in Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m.

Provisions were made for registration before Feb. 16 and after that date in exceptional cases through arrangements with selective service officials.

The President, for the sake of full co-operation with the selective service program, urged all employers and all government agencies to give workers sufficient time off to register.

Selective service officials estimated approximately 9,000,000 would be enrolled, the first of two or more such enrollments in prospect.

Officials explained that those to be registered Feb. 16 were men 20 years old, those who have turned 21 since the registration last July, and men between 36 and 44.

TOBIN STARTS 2D TERM; OFFERS POST-WAR PLAN

Every citizen who is not in the armed forces belongs in civilian defense, Mayor Maurice J. Tobin declared today in his inaugural address at Symphony Hall after he had been sworn in for a second tem, first Boston mayor in 38 years to succeed himself.

The mayor took the oath of office in view of more than 3000 persons and afterward administered the oath of office to the 22 members of the city council and two members of the school committee elected in November.

NOT IMMUNE FROM DANGER

Devoting half of his address to civilian defense, Mayor Tobin said:

'It is better, far better, that we all be prepared for the day which may never come, than to meet adversity in unpreparedness. We in Boston are not immune from danger."

'Our residential and industrial areas," said the mayor, "are exposed to attack from the air. The spirit of our civilian population may be put to a bitter test before our final victory."

But we should, he reminded, "be comforted in the knowledge that victory will most certainly be ours; that once again liberty's light will shine in the world, and once again the flag of freedom will wave unmolested in the breeze of the seven seas.

"I, therefore, appeal to every loyal and able citizen to enlist in some branch of our civilian defense organization," he said. "Here, for every American, is a definite responsibility and a definite privilege."

But even with the guns of war booming across the face of the globe, post-war plans for Boston and her citizens already are being made, the mayor said.

SUDDEN STOPPAGE

"When the last shot is fired," he said, "perhaps on some distant battlefield, there will come a sudden stoppage in defense work, and thousands of men will summarily lose their employment.

"These thousands, together with the men discharged from the service, will create a problem of overwhelming magnitude and of peril to our internal economy. We should now begin to make the plans to meet this problem and to prevent a repetition of what occurred after the last war.

"It is my intention to appoint a committee to lay out and plan a program of major improvements of public necessity and of a nature to provide employment for thousands of our citizens.

"These improvements should be of such a character as to merit the financial co-operation of both the federal and state governments, and should, in as many

Connolly's Wife Files Lurie Suit

With her husband, John Patrick Connolly, former Suffolk Superior Civil Court clerk, unable to appear, Mrs. Mary J. Connolly today filed a $100,000 suit in his behalf against Ruben L. Lurie, of Windsor rd., Brookline, chairman of State Parole Board, in Suffolk Court today.

Connolly was absent because he is serving a three-to-four-year term in Norfolk Prison Colony for selling jobs at Suffolk courthouse.

The action claimed Lurie brought great injury to Connolly's reputation and character by causing to be published in a Boston newspaper an advertisement during the 1940 political campaign.

The ad, titled "Dever, Dowd and Connolly" also caused great pain and anguish to the deposed court official, the action charged. Jury trial was asked.

Lurie was counsel for the Boston Bar Ass'n whose charges resulted in Connolly's trial last year on the job-selling charges.

Connolly was sent to State Prison last April and was transferred to Norfolk prison colony several weeks later.

Timilty Wars On Propaganda

Orders to crack down with "whatever steps are necessary" on the distribution of enemy propaganda in Boston were issued today by Police Commr. Timilty.

The step was taken, the commissioner said, on evidence he has received that pamphlets and books of Nazi Germany "have been sold openly at meetings in Boston."

This particular literature, Timilty said, bears the imprint of "Flanders Hall, Scotch Plains, N. J." a publishing house, which, according to a federal indictment, was financed by George S. Viereck, registered Nazi propagandist.

BAY STATE RESIDENTS WARNED TO PLAN NOW FOR BLACKOUTS

Massachusetts residents were advised today to make immediate preparations for blackouts, as official regulations were distributed throughout the state.

Dean James M. Landis, U. S. regional director of civilian defense, and J. Wells Farley, director of the State Committee on Public Safety, were expected to confer shortly with Governor Saltonstall on the possibility of conducting blackout rehearsals in the near future.

Citizens in any community must receive a seven-day warning of a blackout test. When such a rehearsal is staged, or if the Army should order a blackout in case of emergency, there must be no slip, defense officials warned.

In brief, according to the rules, you must turn out or effectively cover all lights if you are inside, seek cover to avoid accidents if you're outside, according to the blackout booklet, "Blackout Procedures and Suggestins" by Marc Peter, Jr.

CONTINUE 2 MINUTES

During the night hurs the public blackout signal nay be an alarm sounded on whistles and bells, or it may be the extinguishing of street lights. The public alarm signal will be a serie. f short blasts on a siren or whis.. or if given by bells, a constant ringing of those bells.

The "all clear" signal will be a long, continuous blast or a series of long blasts, or a slow tolling of bells. Both the "alarm" and "all clear" signals will continue for two minutes or more.

The occupants of premises, either home, apartment, hotel room, office, factory, shop, store or farm are responsible for putting out lights when the alarm signal is heard. There is no exception to this rule.

In hotels, apartments, office buildings and places of multiple occupancy and use, the managers and superintendents are responsible for all lights whether in public places or in tenants' rooms.

Owners or those in control of illuminating signs and exterior lights are responsible for putting them out on the public alarm signals or when street lights are extinguished.

WALK, DON'T RUN

Street lights and public or exterior lights may be extinguished by the authorities before the public alarm is sounded, and police, assisted by air-raid wardens will see that the blackouts are enforced.

Drivers of all vehicles must immediately pull up to the curb and stop, extinguish lights and seek shelter if available. Drivers are warned not to park at intersections, hydrants, police stations, hospitals or fire houses.

Pedestrians on the streets when a blackout signal is sounded must get under cover as soon as possible. They are to display no lights from flashlights or matches, and never light or smoke pipes, cigars or cigarettes in the open; are to keep close to buildings and walk, NOT RUN.

Street cars and buses will observe the same regulations as other motor vehicles on the street

DEVICES FOR AUTOS

Blackout devices for automobiles are made of opaque hoods and masks attached to head and tail lights, with horizontal slits about one-half inch by three inches, covered with colored cellophane.

Use of flashlights is forbidden during a raid unless equipped with red, or painted glass, or red cellophane.

For blackout purposes in homes apartment buildings and hotels, materials to cover windows and skylights need not necessarily be black. Any opaque curtains, shades, drapes or blankets may be used

Blackout instructions for persons at home are: Remain in the house as much as possible, put out all lights except those in rooms effectively blacked out; use no matches or portable lights outside the house and arrange lights so that they do not shine directly on any window, or other openings or their coverings.

Take care to see that light does not escape around the edges of blacked out windows.

Only police, firemen, air raid wardens and other designated persons will be allowed on the street during a blackout.

What You Must Do in Blackouts

Highlights of the new blackout rules for householders, pedestrians and motorists were summarized by defense officials as follows:

TO THE HOUSEHOLDER—Remain in the house as much as possible; 2, put out all lights except in rooms effectively blacked out; 3, use no matches or portable lights outside the house; 4, lights should be so arranged or shaded that they do not shine directly on any window or other openings or their coverings.

TO THE PEDESTRIAN—Get under cover as soon as possible; 2, use no flashlights or matches; never smoke in the open; 3, pass and keep to the right; 4, Proceed carefully and slowly, don't run; 5, cross streets at intersections; do not "jay-walk."

TO MOTORISTS—Immediately stop and park close to the curb; extinguish lights, close car and seek shelter, if available; 2, park at no intersections, hydrants, police stations, hospitals or fire houses.

Odd Twists In News Not About War

WRONG TAG

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5 (AP)—The WPA gave the name "Byberry Gardens" to a 300-unit housng project, but the board of commissioners says it won't do.

"The name has too many connotations," an official complained.

For years, "Fyberry" has been the unofficial name of the Philadelphia State Hospital for Mental Diseases.

BITING THE HAND—

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP)—Evicted from their home, a couple moved the household furniture onto the sidewalk and left a German shepard dog on guard. Still guarding, the dog allows only one person to approach—the manager of the house from which his master was evicted. The manager feeds the dog.

HER IDEA OF JOKE

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Frank Burns, 36, strode angrily from his home after an argument with his wife, Anna. Returning an hour later he saw a body hanging from a transom between the dining room and bedroom.

A frantic call brought police, who found it was a dummy made of pillows and blankets, clothed in one of his wife's dresses.

Then Mrs. Burns herself stepped from the bedroom and asked:

"Can't you take a joke?"

DOGS, CATS IN BLACKOUT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5 (AP)—Blackouts threaten to change the nightly prowling habits of the family cat. The society for prevention of cruelty to animals advised owners to keep kitty, as well as Fido, inside the house at night.

"Exploding firecrackers on the Fourth of July are enough to drive cats and dogs nearly crazy," said the SPCA. "During a bombing, they might do a great deal of damage."

EXTRA BARK

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP)—Firemen rushing to a third-floor apartment to extinguish a fire received a salute of honor—21 barks—as they went past a second floor flat.

After putting out the blaze the firemen stopped to acknowledge the canine welcome. Miss Marion West said she had 20 dogs in her apartment and if the firemen heard 21 barks one of her pets must have barked twice.

Otis Skinner Burial Tuesday In Vermont

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Otis Skinner, dean of the theater, is dead at 83.

The veteran actor, whose mother once said he would never succeed on the stage because he "could not even talk straight," but whose histrionics during a 55-year span won him international acclaim, died last night of uremic poisoning.

Funeral services will be conducted at noon tomorrow in the Little Church Around the Corner, with burial in Woodstock, Vt.

Skinner was stricken Dec. 7 while attending a benefit performance at the Plymouth Theater. With him when he died was his daughter, Cornelia Otis Skinner, herself a famed actress. His wife, the former Maud Durbin, whom he met on stage, died five years ago.

Skinner, who played more than 325 parts and produced 33 plays before his retirement in 1932, was born in Cambridge, Mass., a son of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles A. Skinner, who did not encourage his dreams of the footlights.

Yet it was they who indirectly launched him as an actor in Philadelphia in 1877. Skinner got that first part with the help of a letter from P. T. Barnum, which read:

"O. A. Skinner is known to me. His parents are very respectable."

Crossing Crash Kills 1, Hurts 13

PITTSTON, Pa., Jan. 5 (AP)—A Lehigh Valley R. R. express train which State Police said was carrying $250,000 in gold struck an automobile stalled and abandoned on a dead end road crossing near here and hurtled from the track, killing one man and injuring 13 other persons.

The crash occurred in the midst of a blinding snowstorm. The locomotive and seven of the 14 cars making up the train were derailed but most of the 250 passengers, including soldiers and sailors returning to duty, escaped injury.

State Police Sergt. J. E. Hess reported the presence of gold on the train, but said he did not know the destination of the gold.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP)—Shoe manufacturers came up today with an answer to the tire famine—a sturdier walking shoe.

This type of women's shoe was unveiled at the opening of the National Shoe Fair here. Early orders were reported 100 per cent more than last year due to additional burdens of walking and standing imposed by defense activities.

Week Auto Toll Leaps to 40

Massachusetts wound up the year with an appalling automobile death list, it was disclosed today when Registrar Frank A. Goodwin reported 40 fatalities for the past week, 21 more than the preceding week and 21 more than the corresponding week a year ago.

"There were 40 persons killed as compared with 19 last week and 19 in the corresponding week a year ago," he said. "Of those killed, 21 were pedestrians and 19 occupants, and 13 of the pedestrians were killed at night. There were six fatalities reported for Boston and four for Springfield.

"Total deaths last year to date, 618; this year to date, 669.

"The final fatality figure for the past year for comparison with that of 1940 cannot be announced until after Jan. 10th when the records for 1941 will be closed."

New Congress Waits Call for More Funds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—The 77th Congress, convening today to open its second session, heard reports that President Roosevelt probably would request between $15,000,000,000 and $18,000,000,000 in special appropriations for the Army and Navy.

This would represent a start toward Mr. Roosevelt's announced goal of stepping up war expenditures to the $50,000,000,000-a-year-rate by June 30, 1943—a sum equal to about half the estimated national income for next year.

Leaders on Capitol Hill appeared uncertain whether the new session would receive the regular budget first or hear the President's message on the state of the union. A decision on this was expected to be reached at a White House conference and presidential aides indicated that Mr. Roosevelt would speak either tomorrow or Wednesday.

The Chief Executive spent a good part of his weekend drafting the address, which may disclose some further details on the campaign the grand alliance of nations has planned to crush the Axis.

MAY GO HIGHER

Speaking of the anticipated request for military funds, informed legislators said that last-minute conferences might boost the total even beyond $18,000,000,000. They pointed out that additional appropriations would be requested later as production of equipment was speeded up.

Mr. Roosevelt's plan of pouring half of the national income into war expenditures would entail monthly outlays reaching $4,000,000,000 by June 30, 1943.

Most legislators believed wartime secrecy would be clamped down upon the military budget, resulting in requests for lump sum appropriations in general categories, rather than the usual specific allocation for planes, guns, tanks and other items.

Men Resume Drills In N. E. Army Camps

Holiday furloughs ended, thousands of soldiers in Camp Edwards and Ft. Devens settled down today to intensive drill routines and maneuvers based on lessons learned in the Carolina war games.

Real wartime atmosphere marked the departure of uniformed men from Boston's railroad terminals, where throngs of relatives and loved ones gathered to wave goodbye to their soldier friends.

An estimated 800 enlisted men jammed five trains from South Station for Camp Edwards and close to 10,000 persons were on hand to see the boys off.

DEDICATE MEMORIAL

Trains to other New England points, to air bases in New Hampshire and Maine and to coastal cities where harbor forts are located, likewise were crowded with soldiers. Many of the men were laden with gifts.

At Camp Edwards the six New England governors were invited to attend the dedication ceremonies this afternoon for a YD Memorial at the new flagpole base in front of the Yankee Division headquarters.

Prominent veterans of the gallant World War division, more than 1000 officers, soldiers and guests were expected to participate in the exercises. More than 300 musicians in a huge massed band were scheduled to provide the musical program.

The memorial consists of three bronze tablets, to memorialize the gallant record of the Yankee Division as a fighting unit.

On one tablet are inscribed the names of former YD commanders, another bears names of battles in which the outfit has fought while the third is left blank for the record of future battles.

COUNCIL FOR USO

Soldiers at Fort Devens will receive the deciding voice on the operation of the United Service Organization Club at the post, with the establishment of a "Service Men's Council" composed entirely of enlisted men.

The recreational center at Devens has always had a form of self-government in the Triangle Service League, a group fostered by the Y. M. C. A. More "say" in the actual functioning of the club will be granted under the new plan.

USO officials said the new council will act in an advisory capacity, working with the club's committee of management. The council will enable the soldiers to plan their own entertainment.

Morale officers at the fort expressed great satisfaction with the plan.

Ho, Hum, 241st Leads In Hub Defense Again

It's an old story for the boys of the 241st Coast Artillery to be called the "best regiment of the month" in the Boston frontier defense sub-sector.

Every month since the award was inaugurated, nearly a year ago, the regiment, commanded by Col. William D. Cottam, has won the title, with the exception of October, when the 9th Coast Artillery received the commendation.

HORSE'S GLORY ROAD ROCKY; TOO EXPENSIVE

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 5 (AP)—The comeback trail looks like a long, hard pull for old Dobbin.

Notwithstanding prohibition of sales of automobiles and tires to private users and restrictions on farm machinery, sales of horses and mules on this major market are lower than a year ago. And right now you can pick up a good five-year-old team of horses for $150 and a first-class team of mules for $300.

Even these prices aren't likely to start any immediate backward transition from the mechanized age believes Ford Owens, veteran horse and mule commission man.

The reasons? Farmers, handicapped by increasing labor shortages, can't get the manpower necessary to raise horses and mules.

And as for city transfer and delivery concerns, it's too expensive to support a horse, except as a last resort.

Prairie hay, for example, sells at $13 a ton, $4 a ton over last January; alfalfa is $21 a ton, up $3, and oats cost 54 cents a bushel, 15 cents more than a year ago. Wheat straw, used to bed horses down, costs $12 a ton, $10.50 more than two years ago.

Finally—there aren't any wagons. They're not made any more on mass production. A wagon which formerly cost $300 would come as a custom job now at four times the cost.

SAVE 12 TRAPPED IN FIRE

Rebuilt Tires Give 80 P. C. Added Wear

Now that the necessity of riding on recapped or retreaded tires faces all civilian motorists, the process by which tire mileage is increased more than 80 per cent is of general interest.

The value of seeking a reliable firm cannot be over-emphasized. The safety of your family and yourself depends on your tires.

Take your tires in to be recapped when you notice that the tread has worn smooth. If you wait too long the cording may become exposed and small bits of foreign matter may rip or tear the rubber in such a way that it will be impossible to salvage the tire.

When you take your tires to a retreading concern a tire expert will examine them closely. He will seek any tread separation, bead break, broken cords or large fabric break which might escape detection except after close scrutiny by an expert.

When the tire has been examined and any little cuts or breaks noted, the shoe is then vulcanized to close these holes. If there are any bad cuts or holes in your tire it will be impossible to recap it.

NEW RUBBER APPLIED

With small cuts or breaks, however, small corded patches are applied with intense heat, making the covering as good as new.

The tire is then put on the buffing machine, which roughens up the smooth running surface to which the new camelback ruboer strip is to be applied.

The buffing machine is equipped with a mat of sharp steel points which take off the high spots as the tire turns automatically so that when the process is finished the tire remains a perfect circle with its running surface all roughened for the next step.

From the buffer the tire is placed in a vise, where a heavy coat of black cement is applied to the roughened surface. The cement fills in all the little holes which might cause trouble when the camel-back strip is being placed on the tire.

The cement is given three hours to dry, for the recapper wants to make certain no dampness remains in the cording. Dampness is one of the causes of blowouts.

Then the new strip of half-inch thick rubber is applied to the surface and tapped into place to make sure that it adheres to all parts of the tire. Extra slices are cut away and when the entire surface has been covered the two ends of the strip are cemented together.

DOUBLE MILEAGE

Now comes the actual retreading process. The recapped tire is placed in a doughnut-like mold in which heat and steam pressure are applied to mold the tread design into the new rubber. A constant temperature of 290 degrees F. and steam pressure is maintained for an hour and 10 minutes.

After being allowed to cool the tire is trimmed, painted and given a final inspection. And there you have a tire which, if properly taken care of, will give you mileage almost equal to that when it was new, and for half the price.

During last year alone 7,000,000 tires were retreaded and according to tire experts less than 3 per cent of them failed to hold up.

Federal sources estimate that there are facilities for retreading at least 10,000,000 a year now in operation. In addition 30,000,000 tires can be retreaded in the molds of the tire manufacturers who ordinarily make new tires.

JOB DONE—Bob Stone and Saul Gilman display a tire that has been recapped.

'Big Bill' Keliher Dies Suddenly

William J. "Big" Bill" Keliher, 67, big-time gambler of another era, was dead today at his Columbus ave.), Roxbury, home.

He died suddenly of a heart attack in the kitchen of his home as he arose to greet his wife and son, James W. Keliher.

"Big Bill," as he was widely known, first came into the public eye when he was convicted in Federal court here of aiding George W. Coleman, a bookkeeper in the National City Bank of Cambridge, in stealing some $200,000 of the bank's funds.

It was brought out at the trial that Keliher was a member of a gambling ring which fleeced the bank clerk of the money he stole, by means of crooked gambling games.

WHAT JAPS' TERROISM MEANS IN PHILIPPINES

By JAMES R. YOUNG
NOTED AUTHOR AND FAR EAST EXPERT
Written Expressly for International News Service

Under the sword of vicious, cocky, leather-booted Gestapo, known and dreaded by all Japanese as "Kempeitai," Manila, the open city, today is at the hands of a ruthless mob of arrogant and supercilious Japanese officers and soldiers of an army of occupation which threatens death to any white person who leaves his house.

All who have encountered these brutes, and there are tens of thousands of every nationality, whether a missionary from the Vatican or a diplomat from Washington, know the dreadful meaning of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's report of the especially harsh treatment accorded Americans in Manila.

The general expected the Japanese would reciprocate in view of what he terms "generous treatment" of 3000 Japs who were allowed freedom as the armies and navy of the Rising Sun pounded at thedefenseless city.

Those of us who have lived in the era of face slapping gendarmes, hypodermic injection needles at railroad stations, and the electric charged barbed wires of Tientsin and Shanghai, the rape of Nanking, the wholesale wreckage of mission hospital gates, opium peddling, kidnaping and assassinations can confirm that Manila faces the same torture.

TERRORISM FOR MANILA

Propaganda pamphlets have been distributed by Japanese airplanes in an effort to persuade native soldiers to cease resistance. Included in these pamphlets are "abusive attacks on the white race," MacArthur radioes.

Manila's Jap reign of terror means:

1—No newspapers except those controlled by the Japanese press law, which provides conviction for anything printed locally or from sources anywhere in the world which contravenes Japan's plans.

2—Aided by 3000 Japs who were never interned so we would afford them American hospitality, and the Sakdalista Filipino party which Japan financed the last five years, Manila will become headquarters for carpetbaggers and brothel operators under military protection. Such is their main source of revenue.

WHAT PRICE AXIS?

3—Americans and other foreigners will be deprived of a telephone. None will be permitted to listen to a radio. No newspapers may be read. Servants will be held under intimidation. Mail will be censored as the Japs take over the postoffice. As in Shanghai, every piece of livestock, every egg, and piece of cloth will be levied a special occupation tax, and water and electricity will be restricted in American homes.

4—Americans face internment. They will be made to rise at 5:30, sleep without beds and be subjected to unbelievable insults. Those who object will disappear.

In contrast some dangerous Japanese were never held on Ellis Island but lived comfortably with radios, papers, food and real courtesy. Others seized have been released and resumed business in New York. Revelations by Treasury Department investigators are amazing in the evidence found confirming that the Japs long planned the attack. Other Japanese are living in luxury at Hot Springs, Va., where physical therapy, baths, massage and a titled swimming pool are part of an advertised health vacation.

WE-ALL

The Japanese attack on the United States instantly changed our trend of thought in this country.

Before that attack some of us thought in terms of "I", others in terms of "we". Neither of those terms expresses our feelings today.

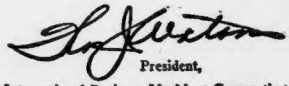
"I" represents only one person.

"We" may mean only two or a few persons.

Our slogan now is WE-ALL, which means every loyal individual in the United States.

We are facing a long, hard job, but when the United States decides to fight for a cause, it is in terms of WE-ALL, and nothing can or will stop us.

President Roosevelt, our Commander-in-Chief, can be certain that WE-ALL are back of him, determined to protect our country, our form of government, and the freedoms which we cherish.



President,
International Business Machines Corporation

'John F.' Marks 50th Year in Public Life

John F. Fitzgerald today celebrated the 50th anniversary of his entrance into public life—election to the Boston Common Council and beginning of a career dedicated to a "bigger, better and busier city."

In reviewing his half century of service the former mayor and congressman recalled that when he took office in 1892 Boston had a population of 448,000 and a tax rate of $14.

He served in the council for one year and then was elected to the State Senate. Two years later he went to Congress. Through his efforts Charlestown Navy Yard was reopened and a drydock built at the yard. He served as mayor of Boston in 1906 for a two-year term and in 1910 he won a four-year term.

During the first World War he led the fight for construction of the Army Base, built at a cost of $30,000,000. Among improvements backed by the former mayor through the years were port development, construction of the High School of Commerce and the Boston Trade School, re-construction of most of the city's bridges, organization of Boston's first planning board, widening of Avery st., construction of City Hall Annex and promotion of city playgrounds.

Despite his years, he now is a member of the Boston Port Authority and still active in restoring to the city its lost glory as a seaport.

"Boston After Dark," by George Holland, appears every day in the Boston American.

State Labor Unites, Ask U. S. Truce

Massachusetts labor marched arm in arm in its all-out war effort today after delegates representing 1500 CIO and AFL state unions had urged their national leaders to present to the enemy a united front for duration of the war.

In unprecedented action state leaders of the rival unions suddenly dropped their differences during separate conventions at the Hotel Bradford and wired their respective presidents to work out a peace plan for labor.

The telegram to William Green, president of AFL, urged renewal of peace negotiations "in the interests of labor unity and with the hope that differences between the two labor organizations can be adjusted to the end that there be a single labor movement in the United States."

UNITY PLEA CHEERED

A similar message was sent to CIO's president, Philip Murray, after CIO delegates had conferred with their state leader, Joseph Salerno.

The unexpected action came after Salerno had invited Kenneth I. Taylor, secretary of the State AFL, to speak before the CIO convention. Without warning, Taylor launched into a plea for labor unity.

The CIO Council delegates stood and cheered for Taylor as he left the rostrum and ere he had left the hall had adopted the resolution, offered by Salerno, to wire the request to Murray.

Taylor returned to the AFL convention and informed the delegates of the CIO action. The cheering delegates stood to vote similar word be sent to President Green.

VOTE NO-STRIKE

The drive for unity in the ranks of labor climaxed three days of an emergency convention of the AFL and a one-day convention of the CIO state branches which voted to outlaw any strikes against defense industries or war production for the duration and voted to waive contract provisions limiting overtime work in defense plants.

Both conventions voted all-out effort to speed war production in all defense industries by whatever means the government calls upon the laborers, and voted to ratify action of state executive committees in pledging united and wholehearted support of the President and Governor in winning the war.

of Manila on Sunday was repulsed with heavy enemy losses.

It is estimated that at least 700 of the enemy were killed in this attack. Our losses were relatively small. This was one of the most serious reverses suffered by the Japanese invaders since the war began.

NOT CAUGHT IN TRAP

"The tactics pursued by the Japanese in the invasion of Luzon contemplated crushing the greatly outnumbered defenders between two invading forces operating as pincers from the north and south. he Japanese trap was closed but American and Philippine troops were not in the jaws. To this extent the Japanese strategy failed, necessitating yesterday's frontal attack which likewise failed.

"Enemy air attacks on the fortified island of Corregidor were renewed yesterday for the fourth successive day. Fifty-two Japanese bombers participated in the attack, which continued for three hours. Material damage and casualties were slight. Our anti-aircraft batteries shot down four Japanese bombers. Four more were hit, but reports of their destruction were not confirmed.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

Enemy Report

Warship Hit, Japs Claim

TOKYO, Jan. 5 (official broadcast recorded by AP)—Imperial Headquarters reported today that Japanese naval units "heavily damaged an enemy warship" at Hilo, Hawaii, in an attack Dec. 31 on three Hawaiian islands.

Besides Hilo, two harbors on Maui Island and one on Kauai Island were attacked by the Japanese warships, the comunique said.

Early Curfew Angers Paris

VICHY, Jan. 5 (AP)—Parisians smarted under a new German punishment in the form of a partial 5 p. m. curfew after fresh anti-Nazi incidents in Paris and the German-occupied Atlantic port of Brest.

Vichy sources did not reveal the nature of the incident at Brest, but they were informed it was so serious as to cause the suspension yesterday of the entire city council, including the mayor.

Rich I Am Member Killed in Car Crash

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Louise Chadbourne, 48, wealthy member of the I Am Movement, was killed in a three-car collision last night, and Mrs. David Chavez, wife of a Santa Fe, N. M., judge and sister-in-law of Sen. Dennis Chavez of New Mexico, was injured seriously.

airdrome at Rabaul, on the island of New Britain in the Bismarck Archipelago, only 800 miles from Australia. Some damage and casualties were acknowledged.

O. K.'S BASE FOR U. S.

(Australian Prime Minister John Curtin was quoted as expressing satisfaction with the new Allied command in the southwest Pacific and as saying it was a "natural sequel" that U. S. naval units would operate from an Australasian station.)

The previous line had been established behind the Perak river, which enters Malacca Strait about 280 miles from this vital naval base.

The British said the Japanese had paid a heavy toll of casualties as the price of their advance.

Further Japanese activity off the west coast of Malaya, where the invaders previously had attempted to land behind the British lines, was reported during the week end. British planes heavily attacked Japanese boats along the coast, a communique said.

The Tokyo radio claimed that the conquest of Perak state already was complete and that Japanese forces, pushing on southward, were within sight of the "strategically important second city of Malaya"—presumably Kuala Lumpur, which is the capital of Selangor and only 200 miles from Singapore.

Yanks at Corregidor Prove Tough to Japs

the doctor, the men of Corregidor battle grimly against overhead odds and pray for a swarm of Aircobras and Flying Fortresses to sweep the buzzards from the air.

JAPS NEED REST

Elsewhere on the Batan peninsula to the north, among rugged hills, MacArthur prolongs his resistance and consolidates his positions while Tokio reports that its attacking force has suffered "colossal casualties" from U. S. and Filipino forces that have "fought like demons." A temporary respite has been noted from Washington in the assault of Japanese ground forces, accepted as indication that the Jap command has been forced to give its hard-worked soliders some rest while reinforcements are brought up. This respite, too, is welcome to the defense, as they lie in their foxholes and rock barricades and summon strength for the next assault. Overhead incessantly the Jap bombing buzzards continue to lay their lethal loads in a sky that is practically without an American plane.

Meanwhile Washington, justifiably keeps a tight lip on all but the meagerest information concerning MacArthur's operations, limiting daily communiques to the mere skeleton outline of enemy action. But it is a patent fact that the survival of the sturdy defending army, where a common menace has removed racial caste and the difference between brown Filipino skins and white American, depends on the supplies, food munitions, equipment and armaments which U. S. ships are able to smuggle through the blockaded lanes outside the fortress of Corregidor, which commands the entrance to Manila Bay, and the port of Olongapo which feeds the defense areteres of Belango peninsula.

PEOPLE PATIENT

The anxious nation is patiently understanding of official muteness and feels that the government, alert at last, is giving every available co-operation to the defenders. It seems probable that, in Japanese submarine infested waters of the South China sea, fast, shallow draft freighters are even now surging through treacherous blacked-out inlets under convoy by our own submersibles—a risky, heroic business which takes equal place beside the blood and bones sacrifice of the land army.

The optimistic view among local military strategists is that Japan's manpower, strung over the vast spaces of China and the Manchurian frontier to Indo-China, Thailand and Borneo is being spread recklessly thin. To quote an anonymous Army authority in the New England region it is estimated that Japan has 3,000,000 men under arms, half of which are engaged in the China theater or immobilized by a Russian threat. That would leave 1,500,000 for home defense and assault against the allied archipelagos.

HUSTLE CONVOYS

Conceivably, today and every tomorrow till the settlement of the Asiatic war, America is hustling troop convoys by devious routes to the central posts of British Malaya, Sumatra and Java where the bulk of the crucial land fighting will occur. On these comparatively narrow fronts the combined Dutch, British and American manpower hopes to stave off Japanese all out attack while U. S. planes come off the assembly lines in increasing clouds until they are able to take command of the skies. That is the crux of a successful war in the East.

The news, where there is news, is ominous enough for any grammar schoolboy to read its significance. "Singapore is being bombed insistently from the air." "Corregidor suffers a five-hour bombing from sixty Jap planes." "The Allied Navies cautiously await sufficient plane protection."

Planes, planes and more planes until the Allies by force of numbers, better pilots and superior machinery can erase the Japanese airforce, estimated at five or six thousand, from the air. That, America and allied experts agree will inevitably come, unless, and that little part of speech is vital—"unless" our plane deliveries delay until after the defending garrisons have been beaten and the all important bases fall into Jap hands. So the cry from all quarters of the Pacific is to American industry, "Hurry, hurry."

IMPAIRED MANPOWER PERILS AP GAMBLE

By MAJ. GEOR FIELDING ELIOT

There are various scatte items of military news, some good, some bad, as must be expected. The most cheering item comes from the Chinese front here an official statement of the Chinese high command, report that the Japanese offensive against the important city of Chang has ended in complete disaster with heavy Japanese casualtie

Exclusive

The Japanese are reported in f retreat in Hangkow, leaving t divisions hopelessly encircled Chinese forces.

G. F. Eliot

This statement seems to be supported by the fact that official invitations have been extended to foreign newsmen and military attaches to visit Changsha, although it is in direct contradiction to the claim by Tokyo to have occupied the city.

However, we must remember some months ago when the Japanese last attacked Changsha they claimed occupation of the town, only to admit what they called a strategic withdrawal on the following day.

It seems probable that the main reason for the Japanese defeat is the fact that they have greatly weakened their forces in China for their distant adventures in Malaya and the Philippines.

It is estimated that at least 20 Japanese divisions—possibly more—are being employed on these two fronts, allowing 30 for the Russian frontier, and there can hardly be less. This leaves the Japanese a total of no more than 15 divisions for China, where there were formerly 35 divisions.

MAKE BIG GAMBLE

Here we have another indication of the real limitations of Japanese military power and of the magnitude of the gamble on which the imperial general staff has embarked.

Another Pacific item of disquieting nature is the report that native chiefs in the Wallace Islands, a French dependency in the South Pacific, have affirmed their loyalty to Admiral DeCou, Vichy high commissioner for all French Pacific possessions, and to Marshal Petain personally.

Inasmuch as it is hardly likely that native chiefs in remote islands such as these have any idea who Marshal Petain may be, much less DeCou, there is a decided suggestion here of fifth column activity on the part of the Japanese or Vichy agents.

The matter is serious because the Wallace Archipelago lies between the American naval station at Samoa and the British-owned Fiji Islands, squarely astride our main line of communications between the Pacific Coast and Australia.

TAKE TIME

Japanese aircraft and ships are reported near the Gilbert Islands, to the north, and as the Japanese have now assumed the right to protect the natives of the Wallace Islands as much as Indo China was protected by them, it might take some time to drive them out. Meantime their submarines and aircraft would be busy on the vital line of communications.

Time is the most precious of commodities in the Pacific war. It might be a subject for reflection by our State Department when they discourage the Free French—and our friends—who are fighting on our side and taking over Vichy possessions as they did in the case of St. Pierre and Miquelon.

REDS DRIVE ON

The Russians seem to be making progress in their encirclement of German troops in the Mozhaisk region. North of Mozhaisk a Stockholm dispatch reports the Russians at the gates of Roshev, vital rail and road junction and the southern arm of the Russian pincer from Toluga, is likewise making progress. In the Mozhaisk area the Germans appear to have held out too long in their front line positions, and they are now in danger of being enveloped and cut off in considerable numbers.

Reds Drive Nazis Back 100 Miles

MOSCOW, Jan. 5 (AP)—Recapture of Belev in a Red army drive west of the Oka river, hurling the Germans back 100 miles from the high water mark of their thrust south of Moscow, was announced today in a Soviet communique.

It declared the Germans lost 2300 men—800 killed and 1500 wounded—in fierce fighting for the key town 50 miles south of Kaluga and halfway to Bryansk from Tula.

The drive, which appeared to menace the whole Nazi wing southwest of the Soviet capital, paralleled the pincer movement farther north where Borovsk fell, threatening entrapment of the last German forces at Mozhaisk, west of Moscow.

(The British radio reported the Russians had closed in on the Mozhaisk sector and that fighting already was under way in the outskirts of the town 57 miles west of Moscow.

(The British report, heard by CBS, said 100,000 Germans were retreating in the area west of Moscow, alone, in an attempt to escape encirclement by Russian forces whose swift flanking advance caught the Nazis by surprise.)

At the far southern flank of the fighting front, Russian troops in the Crimea, supported by units of the Red fleet, reported retaking "one village after another" in fierce fighting.

Nazis Claim Five Red Ships Set Fire

BERLIN, Jan. 5 (Official broadcast recorded by AP)—The German high command announced today that Nazi bombers, continuing their assaults on the Crimean port of Feodosiya, had set fire to five large ships and a destroyer and damaged another big merchant vessel in the harbor.

RAF Bombers Blast Hell Pass

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 5 (AP)—The RAF pounded the Halfaya Pass (Hell Pass) area near the Egyptian-Libyan border today to open a heavy British drive aimed at clearing the last Axis opposition off the Libyan frontier.

Having captured the Axis forces at Bardia, a Middle East command communique said.

"Our attention has been turned to the last remaining pocket of enemy resistance in eastern Cirenaica."

The communique declared 500 additional prisoners had been rounded up at Bardia, bringing the total captured there to 7500.

Horse Thieves Expected Back, Society Resumes

THOMPSONVILLE, Ct., Jan. 5 (AP)—The Enfield Society for Detection of Thieves and Robbers, founded primarily to catch horse thieves, holds its 119th annual meeting here today.

There hasn't been any horses stolen around here for a long time. But you can't buy new automobiles or tires any more, so the society expects to have a large attendance at its meeting.

Colbert in 'Remember the Day' Coming to Metropolitan

Cohan Called Play Best Seen

"Remember the Day," the Broadway stage hit that drew from George M. Cohan the comment, "It's the best play I've seen in 10 years," has been transferred to the screen by 20th Century-Fox with Claudette Colbert and John Payne in the starring roles.

It is due on the Metropolitan screen on Thursday, and if the raves that have greeted its first showing in New York are to be believed local audiences are due for a genuine entertainment treat.

Miss Colbert chose "Remember the Day" as the one picture she is permitted annually outside of her Paramount contract, because of the opportunity it afforded in a stirring dramatic role. Since she was suddenly discovered a few years back as a gifted comedienne in "It Happened One Night" she, as well as a major part of the motion picture industry, has continued along the path of light comedy.

In the Met's forthcoming film attraction, which spans some of the most exciting years of our time, Miss Colbert is the inspiration of two men; one destined to be called to the service to defend his ideals —the other to become a Presidential nominee.

John Payne has the romantic lead, in the role of the young lieutenant, Dan Hopkins.

Supporting players include John Shepperd, Ann Todd, Douglas Croft, Jane Seymour, Anne Revere and Frieda Inescort.

Henry King directed from the screen play by Tess Slesinger, Frank Davis and Allan Scott, which was based on the original play by Philo Higley and Philip Dunning. The film was produced under the aegis of William Perlberg.

The co-feature, "The Perfect Snob," features Charles Ruggles, Charlotte Greenwood, Lynn Bari, Alan Mowbray and Anthony Quinn in a comedy directed by Ray McCarey for 20th Century-Fox.

Claudette Colbert and John Payne are the new romantic team in "Remember the Day," poignant love story, due Thursday on the Met screen.

Cowell Soloist at Concert

Henry Cowell, sensational composer-pianist, who plays with his arms, elbows and hands, and who reaches in the piano to play directly on the strings, will be the featured soloist of the first concert of the newly founded Boston String Orchestra, Jules Wolffers, conducting.

The debut concert will dedicate the elaborate new auditorium of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co., Clarendon st., on Sunday evening.

Cowell had demonstrated his remarkable new technics from coast to coast, touring with Stokowski. Early this season, Cowell amazed the staid New York Philharmonic audience with his startling effects.

For his appearance here, Cowell has written a new Suite for Piano and Strings which he has dedicated to the conductor, Jules Wolffers.

Adding variety to the concert will be Florence Owens contralto, and Gloria Shain, 17-year-old Boston University pianist.

Visit Inspired Mystery Play

Have you ever had one of those "George Washington Slept Here" country estates? One of those places where water for the cooking and the dish-washing must be carried from a well that is invariably a half-mile from the kitchen.

If you have, you will appreciate how Frances Lockridge, wife of New York drama critic Dick Lockridge, reacted when she and her husband visited a fellow writer, Rex Stout, at his country place and witnessed a perfect spraying system shooting water over his green-velvet lawn. The Lockridges' Westchester County estate, they readily admit, is just the reverse.

Which combination of circumstances is directly responsible for "Mr. and Mrs. North," the Lockridges' mystery comedy which opens a two-week engagement at the Plymouth Theater tonight.

For more than 10 years, Lockridge has been supplying the New Yorker magazine with the misadventures of Mr. and Mrs. North.

Then came the visit with Stout at his faultlessly equipped rural manse. On the way home, Mrs. Lockridge wanted to know how it was that Stout, who also wrote for a living, could afford so perfectly appointed a country place and they couldn't.

"Oh," replied her husband, "he does detective novels."

"Is that so," said Mr. Lockridge. "Well, what is the matter with us letting our Norths meet murder, too; maybe we could then afford to have the water piped down from the well."

'Porgy and Bess' Seats in Demand

"Porgy and Bess," Cheryl Crawford's revival production of the late George Gershwin's American folk musical, is playing to capacity houses at the Shubert Theater and promises to shatter the season's boxoffice records. However, excellent locations still are available for all performances.

Incidentally, four members of the cast are native sons and daughters. They are Harriet Jackson, Catherine Ayres, Warren Coleman and Eddie Mathers. Eva Jessye, who leads the famous choir, is from Methuen. A. Dougiass Rice, whose first-night performance won critical acclaim, comes from Braddock Park.

Goodwin; Virginia Barton, Ross Hertz, Ernest Woodward, Gerry Carr, Don Haggerty, Blair Davies, Bettina Prescott, Tom Tempest, Russell Morrison, Joseph Sullivan and others. The play concerns the misadventures of a charming young couple, the Norths, who live in New York's Greenwich Village. The engagement is limited to two weeks.

Wednesday

Tirza, Burns Share Globe Spotlight

Tirza, the latter-day "bath of wine" Broadway celebrity, and the glamour-hoofer, Boots Burns, share the spotlight in the current Globe burlesque revue.

Other burlesque charmers importantly spotted in the smart New

BOOTS BURNS

Year's stage show are Patricia Morgan and Arleen Moody, as well as the indispensable song-and-dance cuties, known as the 30 Bernadolls.

A crew of burlesque's favorite comedians, headed by "Cheese 'n' Crackers" Billy Hagan, "Lookout Below" Harry Seymour, Ted Blair and Phil Fields, assure laughter galore.

The vaudeville headliners include Levan and Boles in comedy sketches, the Cartier Sisters, whirling-dervish acrobats; Cesar and Rosita Company, dancing comics; Charles Willis, sepia singing star; Fields and Burns, comedy team, and "Dapper Dan" Merrill Sevier.

The film attractions are "The Eagle and the Hawk" and "Renegade Trail," in addition to the usual comedy shorts and newsreels.

Japanese Dodging Film Heavy Role

There are thousands of Japanese aliens in southern California, but Sol Wurtzel can't find one of them to play a heavy role in the forthcoming "Secret Agent of Japan" at 20th Century-Fox, Variety reports. American-born actors of Nipponese descent are side-stepping the idea and Chinese players won't even discuss it.

Casting Stage Navy Problem

Recruiting a navy for the New York stage, particularly a Brazilian navy, is not as easy as it sounds, as those connected with the management of "My Sister Eileen," the Wilbur Theater comedy hit, will attest.

The procedure under ordinary circumstances is to send a request to Actors' Equity for possible candidates. In this particular case, however, the specifications were more minute. The men, for example, had to be six feet tall, had to look like Brazilians and, further, had to have some knowledge of the Portuguese language.

Two came in make-up, to resemble dark-complexioned Portuguese. One rented a Brazilian cadet's uniform and asked Producer Max Gordon and Director George S. Kaufman if they couldn't see him in the part.

Another swore he taught Brazilians in their native country how to do the conga and the rhumba and felt, therefore, he knew enough about them to give a good imitation.

Casting the six Brazilians for the Joseph Field-Jerome Chodorov opus became a major problem after a week's auditioning. Director Kaufman held on tenaciously for an authentic group of representative sailors, come what may.

At last there was a break in the clouds. A stranger walked into one of the rehearsals and asked for the job in what seemed like real Portuguese. Since he looked every inch the Latin naval cadet, he was hired on the spot. It turned out he spoke Portuguese all right, but had been to sea only on the Staten Island ferryboat.

Howard Teams Golden Girls From West in Stage Revue

Old Howard's double-feature stage attraction this week teams two golden girls from out of the West's most popular night-spots . . . Jean Mode and Marner.

They are the co-stars of the Old Howard's stage revue, "Sugar

MARNER

Babies," which is rumored to be a tantalizing blend of sweetness and spice, and includes in its cast of 60 some of burlesque's foremost entertainers.

Max Fuhrman, burlesque's pet playboy, returns with a new selection of humor, and pacing him will be the circuit's popular story-teller, Irving Selig.

Other lively and lush personalities in the show are June March, Gay Knight and Jean Van.

Specialty acts include Julie San and Seal, Oriental novelty; The Three Sams, colored dancing wonders; Charlie and Kitty Keene, "Brawl Room" team who arrive here direct from a successful Mid-West tour and the Stanley Brothers comedy acrobats. Others are Teresa and Beth Colson, song-and-dance team; Murray Briscoe, Pinto and Della, Alma Maiben and Bobby Burns and the chorus line of 30 pretties.

"Road to Zanzibar," co-starring Bob Hope, Bing Crosby and Dorothy Lamour, and "Charlie Chan in the Wax Museum," with Sidney Toler, are the screen features, as well as comedy shorts and newsreels.

SISTER FROTHINGHAM is giving Bostonians a one-model fashion show of sumptuous evening gowns . . . Not content with being one of the few society girls who has made a success of professional singing, Sister treats the customers at the Somerset's Balinese Room to several changes of unusual gowns each evening . . .

The other night she went through her animated song routine at the dinner show wearing a striking black crepe gown with a slim skirt slit to reveal a panel of crimson to contrast with the brilliant green trimming on the bodice . . . Later that evening she changed into a soft white crepe made with a short sleeved bodice and full length overskirt of deep white fringe . . . With each and every gown she wears brilliant jewelry and long suede gloves . . . black ones with her black gowns, or pastels with gowns of lighter color . . .

She is versatile, too, at effecting new and different coiffures . . . tossing her beautiful blonde hair into an upswept arrangement over her forehead with a peruke in back, or wearing it shoulder length with an upswept pompadour on one side . . .

In between shows she changes into one of several pajama costumes which have divided skirts so full it's difficult to tell them from bouffant evening gowns . . .

Her enthusiastic audience the other evening included another of Boston society's glamour girls—Lucy Cochrane, whose famous platinum tresses have been cut shorter than her usual shoulder length bob . . .

Lucy wore a black taffeta gown with deep bands of velvet trimming the skirt and was in a large party of young Back Bay socialites . . . Francis P. Sears, Jr., Budsy Cochrane, Sally Sears and Sister Sears with her fiance, Ben Gardiner, were among them . . . and joining the party were Lucy's mother, Mrs. Dudley Pickman, with Mr. Pickman, Mrs. Alonzo Wessel and Bancroft Davis . . .

At a nearby table blonde and piquant Evelyn Soule, wearing a novel gown of beige chiffon with a sleeveless jerkin of flame flannel, was in a foursome with Sally Read and two Harvardians . . . Sally's black velvet gown was trimmed with mink . . . Debutante Patricia Drew, home from college for the holidays, was in a merry foursome enjoying the antics of John Heysradt who, among other hilarious skits, impersonated a Back Bay dowager at Friday afternoon Symphony . . .

Listen, World!
REAL UNITY

By Elsie Robinson

IT'S ONE of those incidents that never make the front page. Yet, I wonder. Perhaps when the shouting's all over, we'll find they did as much to hold the world together as all the ships and subs, planes and fighting men.

There are about 18 families in the crowd, with the usual ratio of old folks, youngsters, pups, white mice and pet turtles. They live on a jumbled street on the edge of the city, where the fields begin. Not green enough to be country, not glittery enough to be town. Folks the same way. Nobody bustin' rich, nobody beggar poor. Houses like the folks. Comfortable but shabby around the edges. Spotty lawns . . . tousled hedges . . . imitation jig-saw villas. Kids, o'course, swarming all over the place . . . laughing, squabbling, dancing to the radio, going to the movies, raiding the ice box. You know the kind of place.

The kind those boys were fighting for on Wake Island. The kind they died for in Pearl Harbor, the other day. A sort of dream . . . a sort of mess . . . a sort of glory. A-M-E-R-I-C-A!

So, there they were all living together, those 18 families—yet not. And, s'far as the kids went, it was jake. Kids are natural democrats. They don't need to be told what America means; they are born knowing. But the Dads 'n' Moms, that's different. Sometimes, coming back from marketing or the day's job, that street got their goat. They didn't know what it meant . . . nor what they, themselves meant . . . NOR WHAT AMERICA MEANT And the deeper we got into the defense work, the less they knew.

ONE DAY, one of the women had a hunch. Nothing very dramatic—I warned you it wouldn't be. Just a hunch that maybe they'd feel better if they got together once a week . . . talked things over . . . listened to the news broadcast . . . maybe had someone read an article . . . laughed and argued over coffee and doughnuts.

Of course it wouldn't be "anything important." But maybe if they just got together . . . got to know each other better . . . got to know what was happening . . . well, maybe that would be something. Not much, but something.

So what? So they did. That was three months ago. Today you wouldn't know that street. The lawns are just as spotty, the clothes-lines just as saggy. But something's happening. Those 18 families have come alive! They wait for that weekly meeting as it were the Rose Bowl carnival.

The women have taken up knitting. The men are doing target practice in an old garage. They've chipped in, bought a big new globe . . . a wall map and a lot of those colored tacks. Each night, before they part, they sing the National Anthem, say the Lord's Prayer. They're watching the war. They're watching life.

THEY'RE GUARDING AMERICA . . . AND WHEREVER THEY GO, THEY'RE SPREADING THE CONTAGION OF THEIR NEW FAITH AND COURAGE.

I TOLD YOU it wouldn't make the Front Page. And yet, I wonder. Perhaps when the shouting's over, we'll find they did as much to hold the world together as all the ships and subs, planes and fighting men.

Perhaps they're what we mean when we say: A-M-E-R-I-C-A!

ALASKA AS TOKYO RAID BASE

Well Equipped to Bomb Japan But Use of Soviet Ports Urged

By FRANK O'CONNOR

When, and if, our warplanes bomb Tokyo, the geographical "natural" for their take-off is Alaska.

Eighty-eight years ago Commodore M. C. Perry of the United States Navy negotiated the commercial treaty that marks the birth of modern Japan. If the Nipponese have not already demolished the statue they erected in the commodore's honor, an American made high explosive bomb may yet accomplish its ironical erasure.

Pearl Harbor, Hongkong and Singapore have heavily overshadowed Alaska as a potential battle area for the people of the United States during the past four weeks. But no such obscurity has there been for the 90,600 inhabitants of Alaska, the Army and the Navy.

Only last week a Navy communique warned that "Japanese vessels are suspected of being in the vicinity of Kodiak, an island off the Alaskan peninsula which has been transformed into a naval base." And over the week-end, Alaska's delegate to Congress, Anthony J. Dimond, called for the immediate strengthening of the bases of these strategic Islands and the concentration of "planes, more planes—lots of planes."

Both the Navy and Delegate Dimond are equally fearful that Japan may strike first. Not so long ago they were both more optimistically scanning maps that showed Japan is closer to Dutch Harbor, our farthest west Aleutian islands base, than is Pearl Harbor. Today they are giving more consideration to the fact that the converse is equally true.

PLENTY OF BASES

Delegate Dimond had hardly called the nation's attention to the protective needs of the territory before U. S. Senator Walgren of the nearby state of Washington recalled that only last September he had notified the Navy Department that Japanese vessels, one as large as 8000 tons, were operating off Dutch Harbor, ostensibly fishing, but obviously "making maps, taking weather observations and gaining accurate information of this important strategic area."

American Warplanes—Which Soon May Be Winging Toward Tokyo—Patrol Alaskan Coast

Let us not, however, get to viewing the Japanese menace with too much alarm, but rather consider the Alaskan menace to Nippon.

First of all, we are well provided with bases for any air attack on Japan. For fully three years the Army, Navy and territory have been engaged in the establishment of new fortifications and the strengthening of the old.

The Navy has its Dutch Harbor outpost on Unialaska Island. Further inland is Kodiak Island base and on the mainland is Sitka. The Army has dug in, primarily for defence to be sure, with airfields and fortifications at Nome, Fairbanks, Anchorage, Juneau and Annette Island. Under construction is a port and air terminal at Whittier.

In addition a string of airfields is being constructed by the Civilian Aeronautics Authority. Extending to the United States through British Columbia are similar Canadian airfields.

10,000 SENT TO ALASKA

The number of our military and naval forces and details of their bases are, of course, military secrets. But it is no secret that more than 10,000 civilian workmen and their families, together with immense amounts of materials, have been transported to Alaska since the gangster nations made their menace to democracy plain to all who read the signs.

In this respect and under the head of unpreparedness, it is not amiss to note that the long proposed international highway from Seattle to the Alaskan city of Fairbanks is still in the planning stage. Once this is built, America need no longer depend on sea routes for defense of the territory and Canada.

Alaska, nevertheless, feels that the present accomplishments of the Army and the Navy in their race against time is not enough.

Thinking in terms of attack rather than defense, Alaska urges that the United States lease from Russia the Komandorsky Islands, which lie near the Asiatic tip of its own Aleutian Islands. Already Moscow had established a naval base there with a personnel of more than 20,000 men, even during time of peace. Not much more than one hour's flying time away are the Aleutians.

For the purpose of an air attack on Japan is is more likely that Washington would prefer to dicker with Russia (and Washington probably has) for joint use of Petropavlovsk, the little-known but great Soviet naval and airbase on the Siberian mainland nearby—more precisely on the southeastern side of the Kamchatka peninsula.

VLADIVOSTOK VULNERABLE

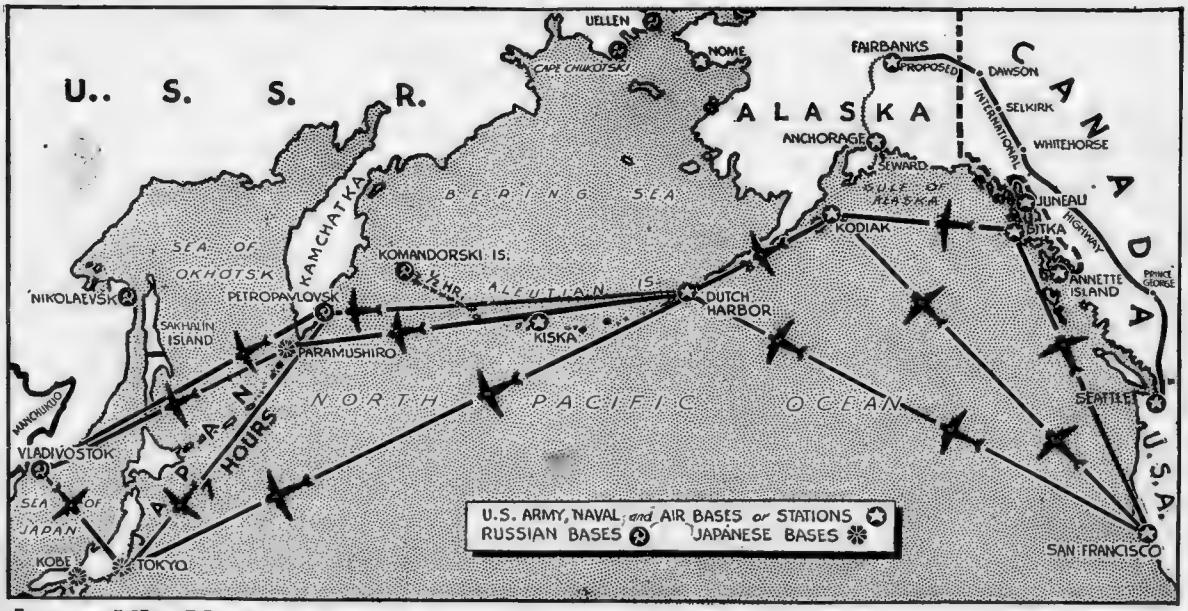
From Petropavlovsk to Tokyo a bomber may fly in seven hours and should Russia collaborate with the United States in an offensive against Japan one may be certain, military authorities declare, it will be from the Kamchatkan base that action will be launched. Better-known Vladivostok is nearer Toyko but is too vulnerable to enemy attack to offer assurance of major value.

Petropavlovsk, be it realized, is the real Asiatic key to the Northern Pacific. Defensively, it serves as a base against operations of Japan against Alaska or American shipping bound for Northern Siberia ports.

A look at the accompanying map makes clear how the air attack of Japan would be routed. Naval planes taking off from the United States have the option of three Alaskan springboards. Army planes have their choice of more, but Anchorage is the likely offensive spot.

Thence their routes would extend over the Aleutians to either the Komandorsky Islands, Patroavlovsk, or to the mysterious Soviet bases farther north. Just as simple as that to an arm chair strategist, but requiring years of preparation by practical military and political minds. As witness the establishment of those Soviet bases in Pacific and Arctic Siberia.

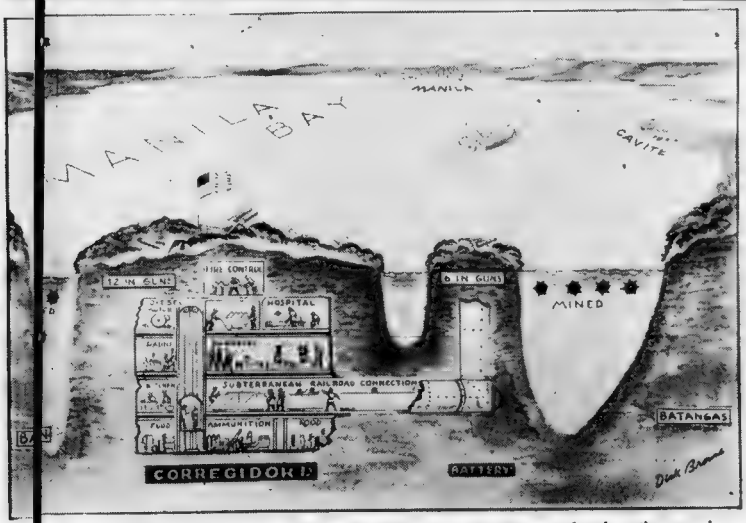
Seventy-five years ago we made a bargain basement purchase of our greatest territory, with its fabulous natural resources, from Imperial Russia for $7,200,000. It cost $2,500,000 to build the first model of the Douglas B-19, the world's largest military aircraft that may lead the parade to Tokyo with motors roaring to the tune of "Remember Pearl Harbor."



Japan Via Alaska—If United States warplanes bomb Japan, it is likely that Alaska, our northernmost frontier, will be the taking-off point. The map explains how such an attack would possibly be routed. Planes taking off from the United States could have the option of Alaskan springboards. Routes directly to Japan or over the Aleutians to Soviet bases and then to Japan could be followed.

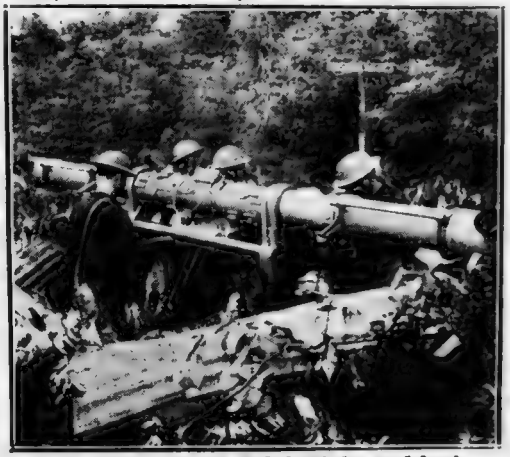
CORREGIDOR . . . BESIEGED BOTTLENECK

olding of Great Island Fortress by Americans and Filipinos Thorn in Jap Strategy

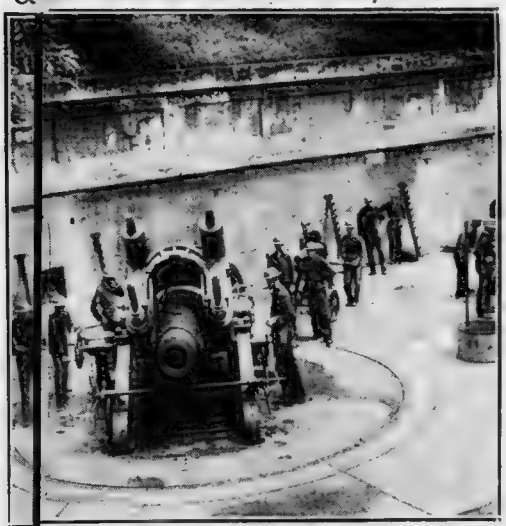


Layout—This sketch gives you an idea of the layout of Corregidor, heavily armed fortress. While it is in U. S. hands, the Japanese hope for Manila Bay as a base from which to operate their fleet against Singapore cannot be fulfilled. Experts say Corregidor should be able to hold out for many months.

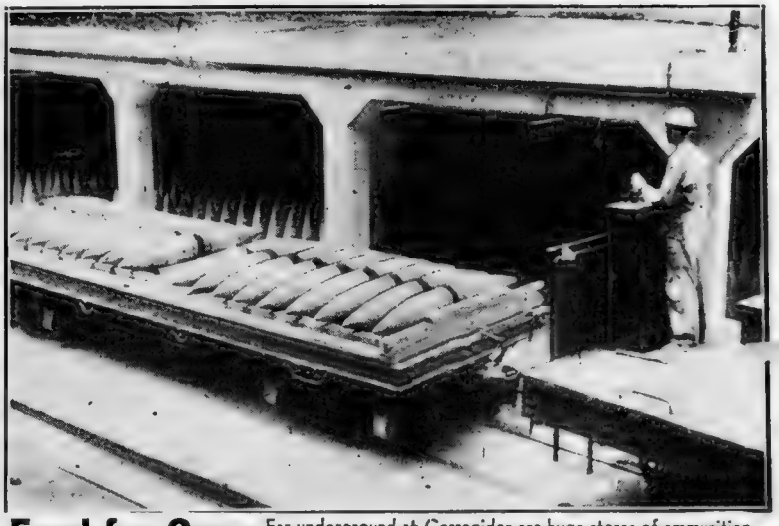
Defenders—These guns, part of the anti-aircraft defense of the island fortress of Corregidor, Manila Bay guardian, are seeing action against the Jap attackers. Manned by American gunners, these weapons blasted four enemy planes out of the sky in latest attack. As long as Corregidor is held, Japs can't use Manila Bay.



U. S. Soldiers Operate Height Finder on Island



Stickers—These great guns are some of the many that are set to blast away at Jap invaders. These are . . . but Corregidor has bigger ones.



Food for Guns—Far underground at Corregidor are huge stores of ammunition . . . enough to keep the fortress' guns barking for a long time. Here's a view of one of the stores, where hundreds of shells are being kept in readiness.

THE LITTLE DUTCH BOY

THE CONFLICT in the Pacific has not been all bad news. One of the most heartening phases of the war has been the effectiveness of the Dutch, in not only beating off strong Japanese attacks on the East Indies but in conducting aggressive and offensive war against the Japanese.

The Dutch have sunk Japanese naval and merchant craft at the rate of one ship a day.

Dutch airplanes and submarines have ranged far beyond their own territorial waters to render substantial aid to the British in Malaya and the Americans in the Philippines.

It may well be said that the situation of the Americans and British, serious as it is, would have been infinitely more grave without the effective support of the Dutch.

Neither the Americans nor the British anticipated such support.

Certainly the Japanese did not anticipate it.

The reason the Dutch in the East Indies have been able to do so well is that they have the only war front in the Pacific where the advantage in the air is not held by the Japanese.

The Dutch are said to have started the war in the Pacific with more than one thousand airplanes.

They were for the most part modern American airplanes.

They had been foresightedly purchased, and presumably paid for, by the provident Dutch.

They were not "on order," but ON HAND.

What the Dutch have accomplished in the East Indies could have been accomplished by the Americans and the British in the Philippines and in Malaya by the same foresightedness, and probably can STILL be accomplished.

But in the event the Philippines and Malayan situations have deteriorated too far for immediate repair, the means of ultimate repair may be found in the sound and successful front being maintained by the Dutch.

Essential to this is immediate and adequate action by the Allies to maintain the advantage in the air which the Dutch have thus far maintained by their own devices.

The Dutch must not be LEFT to their own devices.

They must be provided with not merely MORE American airplanes but a continuing and sufficient supply.

They must be equipped to KEEP the Japanese at a disadvantage, in the air and elsewhere.

The Dutch East Indies can be reached by American reinforcements and equipment with less difficulty than almost any other war area in the far Pacific.

If they are saved, Singapore can be saved and the Philippines can be saved, or at least retrieved.

They who go
Feel not the pain of parting.
It is they who stay behind
Who suffer.
—LONGFELLOW.

DO YOU KNOW a girl with dimples? Marry her if you can. Girls with dimples usually are of superior intelligence, well balanced, good managers of money and are of a sympathetic and affectionate nature. Dimpled girls have a reputation of being flirts. But they are not. When they make eyes, smile, etc., at a man it is just because they want to please him and give him more confidence in himself. When a dimpled girl meets the right man she is very sincere. A girl with dimples told me all this. She said she read it in a book.

GETTING PERSONAL: Recent events have inspired some quaint song titles, but so far none has exceeded in that respect that quaint ditty of a year or so ago titled "Blitzkrieg Baby, You're My Itsy-Bitsy Bombshell of Love" . . . The city is no place to keep a dog. That's why I moved out of a New York apartment; so I could live where I could keep a dog and give him a fair deal. City life makes a dog nervous and makes his life about 30 per cent shorter . . . I think the two greatest singers of popular songs of the past 40 years are Bing Crosby and Al Jolson. I like Al a little better than Bing. Crosby was greatest singing "I Surrender, Dear" and "Just One More Chance," but consider Jolson singing "April Showers," and "Rockabye Baby, Here I Come With a Dixie Melody."

TODAY'S TRUE STORY: A California woman suggested to her husband he needed stronger glasses. He got them. First morning he wore the new glasses he looked up from the morning paper and gazing intently at his wife said: "Why, Darling, I never noticed you had wrinkles before" . . . Many citizens discussing the current war situation as it concerns the United States preface their remarks with "Why don't they . . ." These "Why Didn't They" Monday morning quarterback types recall what Horace said: "After the event even a fool is wise" . . . "The ideal wife is tall, slim, blonde and not less than 45," states Louis Verneuil. A somewhat silly observation. What is one man's ideal wife is a bore to another. Makes no difference whether a wife is tall, short, slim, fat, blonde or brunette if she has what it takes to make her husband contented.

PASSING BY: Mrs. Pat Di Cicco. Former Gloria Vandervilt, Jr. "Blessed be the bride the sun shines on," is an old saying. The sun shone on Gloria's wedding day. So I guess everything is going to be all right. It has been said that Mr. Di Cicco comes from Brooklyn. This is an error. He is from Long Island City, which, though adjacent to Brooklyn, more resembles the Bronx . . . Robert Emmet Sherwood. Playwright. If asked to name the three greatest American playwrights of all time, my choice would be Eugene O'Neill, Clyde Fitch and Sherwood. Bob is six feet, six inches tall and was born in New Rochelle. I thought I was the only one who specialized in imitations of Fred Astaire at parties until I found out Mr. Sherwood is similarly affected by a gay atmosphere. He imitates Astaire, singing "When the Red, Red Robin Comes Bob, Bob Bobbin' Along."

SIDELIGHTS: "Am starting a Redheads' Hall of Fame. Please name some celebrated bricktops," writes a strawberry blonde subscriber of Baltimore. No Redheads Hall of Fame should fail to include George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Calvin Coolidge, Cleopatra, Shakespeare, "Red" Killifer, Bob Fitzsimmons, Sarah Bernhardt, Minnie Maddern Fiske, Mrs. Leslie Carter, Mrs. Pat Campbell, Ginger Rogers, Janet Gaynor and Clara Bow . . . The battleship Arizona, sunk at Pearl Harbor, was built in 1916. Consider the difference between a 1916 auto and a 1941 auto. Or a 1916 plane and a 1941 plane. Are battleships any different in that respect?

BRIEFLY: Some men of science claim only 8 per cent of the gasoline put in an automobile engine does any work; the rest is wasted. From what I have heard from scientists, mechanics and automobile engineers, I believe with engine improvements the day is not far off when an average car will go 300 miles on a gallon of gasoline . . . Women taxicab drivers are replacing men called into the armed forces and defense industries. Female taxi skippers may be difficult to dislodge later on. They will dress neatly, keep their cars clean and develop a service that will appeal to female cab riders and to males who have a weakness for the opposite sex. It may be that in the future a male taxi driver will only be able to get a job driving a cab at night.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: "The mystery of Hitler's announcing he is now in full command of his armed forces" is what a commentator refers to. What's the mystery about it? Der Fuehrer announced he was now in command to try to sell the idea to the German people he was not in command in Russia during the recent set-back. Just passing the buck . . . New Yorker complains his physician now charges $5 a visit, which he says is "too high." He's getting off easy; a lot of Manhattan physicians now charge $15 a visit.

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Jan. 5—This is the cherry season of prize-bestowing and laurel-tossing, the time when it is customary for this column to jitterbug out on the newsprint limb, fling caution to the winds, and bestow its own imiginary Oscars upon those stars and starlets who labor so hard in the vineyards of Broadway, Hollywood and other gathering places of talent and genius.

THEN, of course, there was that best possible achievement in the entertainment world, that epic designed for everyone everywhere: Walt Disney's "Dumbo."

There was Renee DeMarco's solo debut and Tony DeMarco's new partner, the excellent Sally Craven. There was Tschaikowsky's teaming with Freddy Martin, an unusual Tin Pan Alley combination.

Let us not forget that the brightest of the new singers was Dinah Shore, and the smartest rhumba music was played by Xavier Cugat. The most exciting decor was unveiled in Fefe's Monte Carlo Beach.

The best singing trio was composed of the incomparable Andrews Sisters . . . The best book for national reading was A. J. Cronin's "Keys of the Kingdom."

DANNY KAYE had the most spectacular rise and gin rummy starred in the biggest fad . . . Best courting continued to be the Barberry Room; best place for seeing a good floor show was the Waldorf's Wedgwood Room.

Most celebrity-laden club was the Stork, as always; best advised was the Palais Royal, which didn't open; most uproarious was the Diamond Horseshoe.

Torchiest voice was Gertrude Niesen's singing "Tabu"; most astonishing voice belonged to Lenora Lonergan in "Junior Miss" . . . Biggest movie click was Abbott and Costello; publicity skyrocket was Veronica Lake.

And the most memorable day of the year was December 7, and the most rosounding phrase: "Remember Pearl Harbor!"

BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

MONDAY MUSINGS: Dave (The King) Wilson's incredible feat of sweeping the Tropical race card of eight races by picking the winner of each event was the talk of the town over the week-end . . . Many wondered if the paper was being overly modest in not acclaiming the King's latest wizardry as the first such sweep on record . . . Handicappers have swept a card occasionally when six races, and later seven races were used to complete a day's racing program . . . But veteran turf followers hereabouts, including a few gentlemen who make book on the races, could not recall a precedent for the job Dave did Saturday . . . Yet it probably has happened someplace before.

A PLEASANT ANGLE of the triumph by the gangling, modest young man his friends call "Whitey" was the unanimous joy with which the news was received . . . Sometimes it isn't a high tribute to remark that a newspaperman hasn't an enemy . . . In Dave's case, by the nature of his work, such a piece of praise can be reconciled with the fact that he is also a grand and conscientious workman . . .

ONE OF THE SMALL IRONIES of the first month of total war for America is the situation in the New York home of George M. Cohan, where George's serious illness already has cast a pall . . . It is trite to comment on Mr. Cohan's patriotism . . . "A real nephew of your Uncle Sam, born on the fourth of July—" . . . These lines from the Cohan song, "He's a Yankee Doodle Dandy," have been accepted universally as a description of the man Broadway calls "the great, little guy" . . . Well, for 20 years, the Cohan man-of-all work has been a small slant-eyed fellow called "Mike" . . . Mike is George's dresser in the theater, and his valet (a description Mr. Cohan never uses) at home . . . Mike's real name is "Hahna," (although this spelling is probably incorrect) and he's a Jap . . . There has never been a more devoted servant than Mike, nee Hahna . . . He has been as much a part of the Cohan domicile as the furniture . . . The day after war broke out, Mike was ordered to remain at home . . . It was a routine and general order, and the Cohan valet was not suspected of espionage or anything subversive . . . Nevertheless exceptions could not be made . . . So we have the unusual situation of a famous American, the man who wrote the American marching-song of World War No. 1, having a member of his household under surveillance as a possible fifth columnist.

PHIL BAKER, WHO HAS BECOME a quipmaster of the radio once again, tells a story about a fellow hired by a realtor to collect rents . . . After he had been on the job for three weeks, he got a phone call from the realtor, who asked: "Why don't you come around for your wages?" . . . "Gee!" said the collector. "Do I get a salary, too?"

THE PROBLEM OF MR. COHAN'S man Mike, recalls a Jap story being told by John Kirby, the

Telling New Joke About the Rent Collector

smooth jazz maestro . . . This was a Japanese-American who went to court to have his name changed from Hashimura to Johnson . . . The request was granted, but a week later the Jap returned with a request that the name Johnson be changed to McGillicuddy . . . The judge demanded a reason for the new request . . . "Please, your honor," the Jap explained, "when I told people my name was Johnson, they say—'Yeah, and what was it before it was Johnson'" . . . (You may have to study this one a little.)

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: The good news issues from the Rio Casino that Harry Spear, the master-of-ceremonies, will stay on as conferencier of "Adrift in New York," the old meller which takes over the stage of the Warrenton st. spot tonight . . . Harry worked successfully for months as "Chuck' Connors, the Mayor of Chinatown," in the World's Fair show, "Little Old New York" . . .

TERESA WRIGHT SEEN IN COVETED ROLE

By Louella O. Parsons

Teresa Wright

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5—The most surprising Hollywood news in days is Hunt Stromberg's resignation from M-G-M after nearly 20 years with that company. Hunt, who has made many of the class pictures at M-G-M, has asked to be free as soon as he finishes his present assignments. Although his contract has two years to go and his health is better than it has been in a long time, he felt, because of certain company policies, it was better for him to step out.

He made such pictures as "The Great Ziegfeld," Academy Award winner for 1939; "The Women," a top money grosser; "Susan and God" and his last picture, "I Married an Angel," with Jeannette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy. He produced "Dancing Daughters" with Joan Crawford and many of M-G-M's earlier successes.

I THOUGHT it was all over but the shouting that Barbara Stanwyck was to play Mrs. Gehrig in "Pride of the Yankees" when she was introduced at the Gehrig luncheon, but I hear it is by no means settled and the chances are about 90 to 10 that Teresa Wright, under contract to Sam Goldwyn, will have the role. Teresa is working in "Mrs. Miniver" and reports from Willie Wyler to Goldwyn are so favorable that a little bird tells me she will play the wife of the beloved Gehrig.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: A hot rumor that Clark Gable was in one of the local hospitals under an assumed name suffering with eye inflammation kept this writer busy. After spending most of the day and half the night checking I learned Gable has had a bad cyst on his eye. He was told he should have it removed but so far he has not gone into the hospital. He was not able to go duck hunting as he planned, but spent New Year's Eve in town and went to a small private party with Carole Lombard.

A LINE OR TWO: Merle Oberon has never ceased to be grateful to Mayor LaGuardia for his kindness to her when she was in trouble over leaving the country for Canada on a war mission without telling Uncle Sam. So she wrote and told His Honor she would do anything she could to help. He referred her letter to Mrs. Roosevelt who answered Merle pronto with a request she go on the Red Cross show . . . "Young Mr. Pitts," starring Robert Donat, and which was twenty-three weeks in the making because of air raids in London, will be released in the spring.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Leon Ware of the writing Wares, who had a big year in '41, has been called in to do an original screen story for 20th Century-Fox; Martha Raye, who collapsed in Cincinnati on her personal appearance tour, goes to Palm Springs to rest for a month; the Mark Hellingers have adopted another child. This time it is a boy; George Cukor hosting a luncheon honoring Henri Bernstein, Ina Claire and her husband—Zoe Akins' house guests. Janet Gaynor, Adrian and Anita Loos were the other guests; Buddy Westmore, who was married during the holidays to Rosemary Lane, returned home today. He is only 26 years old and it is very likely he will go into active service; Loretta Young and Tom Lewis spent their week-end at La Quinta. Rosalind Russell and Freddie Brisson were there for New Year's Eve, as were Edna Mae Oliver, the Tim Whelans and the J. Cheever Cowdins, who are honeymooning there; Charles Laughton with a beard a mile long had the Brown Derby tourists out of their seats; Marion Holmes, torch singer with Art Kassel's orchestra, marries Don De Fore, Warner player after Jan. 15, when her contract with the orchestra expires. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

Hess Hails Hitler's Betrayal of Russia

proper pigeon holes; for the military, it was merely a matter of switching and realigning the forces at their disposal and getting them into proper place for the moment designated by the Fuehrer.

HESS TRIUMPHANT

But across the way from the chancellory and the foreign office, a silent man sat at his desk staring before him. Hess, brooding by nature and fanatical follower of Hitler in his quiet way, was celebrating an emotional triumph within himself.

In August of 1939 he had broken down and cried and sobbed like a baby with shock and mortification when Hitler and Stalin signed the deal; he retired to a sanitarium like a spurned lover to recapture in mind and spirit when England seriously declared war on Germany. All had come at once, sinking him into the blackest depths of despair since the days when a gassed lung from the trenches made his life hang on a thread

He sat at his desk now, trying to grasp what had happened. The Fuehrer had indicated that the war with England might soon be over.

To Hess it was like the return of an undying love to his home and hearth. He was a friend of England; he was of that peculiar Nazi circle—favored and encouraged for a long time by Hitler himself—which felt that Germany and England were the chosen people of this earth, fated to rule and fit for a natural friendship.

He sat there and dreamed of the great moment when England and Germany would be at peace.

GOSSIP MILL GRINDS

The weeks went by and Christmas and New Year came and went. Around Berlin the gossip mill was going full blast, speculating on what spring would bring and where the blitz would strike

There was dissension and open difference of opinion between Goering and Ribbentrop, for example, on the proper way of proceeding to the kill. Ribbentrop was for smashing hard at England at the same time as at Russia; Goering argued that a double front going full blast at the same time would rest too heavily upon the shoulders of the airforce if not on the military as a whole.

Hess had a favorite theory that once you told England in direct manner that peace was available at an honorable price and furthermore that into the bargain would come the smashing of Bolshevist Russia, the trouble in the West would be over.

He harped on the numerous friends of Hitler and Germany over in England; he recalled to the minds of all that in Germany itself a handshake with England could be made popular overnight.

All the fervor and passion of his Nazi heart came flooding to the surface and nothing on earth could shake his conviction that a golden opportunity lay within grasp.

PEACE RUMORS SPREAD

In all those weeks at the beginning of 1940 there came to our ears repeatedly rumors from outside of Germany that Hitler was seeking a new peace. At one time it wou'd be the king of Sweden who had been asked to intervene in London, at another time it would be the Pope or Sven Hedin or even President Roosevelt. Ever and again the ponderous voice and spokesman of Wilhelmstrasse denied any and all intentions of seeking peace.

"Victory must precede all talk of peace from our side," Ribbentrop's mouthpiece and spokesman of the Foreign Office Minister Paul Schmidt pontifically told the foreign press corps in his daily conferences time and again.

Therein lay the strength and effect of Hitler's repeated peace offensive. They were launched in devious ways abroad and sharply denied at home.

HIDES PURPOSE

It also served the two-fold purpose of gathering from the four corners of the earth the world's reaction to such a plan and on the other hand, camouflage what really went on below the surface to Hitler's great advantage in preparing and carrying out the surprise moves he so readily loves.

By April, Hess had definitely lost his case, and the attack on Russia had been fixed for April 22, although the Yugoslavian coup against Hitler eventually postponed the war on Russia until June 22.

More than ever Hess had it fixed in his mind that peace with England could come almost simultaneously with war on Russia, and in fact England might even be swung over to moral support of Germany against the Bolshevists.

HATRED FILLS HEART

A wheel was spinning around and around inside his head; his heart was filled with black hatred for arrogant Ribbentrop and with an unquenchable conviction that if only someone like himself could get to talk man to man to influential Englishmen, a great triumph would be achieved.

If the Fuehrer would only consent to arrange a meeting between himself and some high-placed man from London, the war in the West would be over. What a triumph, what a boon to civilization, what glory for the fatherland and the Fuehrer!

Tomorrow Hess tells how Hess shrewdly arranged for his flight to England in such a manner as to avoid suspicion and how Hitler narrowly escaped seeing his Nazi party crash to bits under its impact. This is the sixth of a series.

10 MAYORS INDUCTED IN NEARBY CITIES

Ten mayors were inaugurated in Bay State cities outside of Boston and the new Plan E government in Cambridge took office in traditional ceremonies today.

Elected by proportional representation ballot, nine Cambridge city councilmen met to choose a mayor from their membership. The post, which pays $1000 a year more than the council positions, was sought by seven councilors. The salary for councilors is $4000 a year each.

The Cambridge body also will hire a city manager at a salary of $20,000 annually. There are four candidates for the post.

Other mayors taking office are Frank E. Lewis, Everett; James J. Meehan, Lawrence; John C. Carr, Medford; Vernon C. Newman, Malden; Edward A. Coffey, Salem; Bernard L. Sullivan, Chelsea; C. A. Raymond, Melrose; John M. Lynch, Somerville; Arthur A. Hansen, Waltham, and John M. Kelleher, Newburyport.

Dutch Planes Guarding Oil

LONDON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Lieut.-Gen Heln Ter Poorten, commander-in-chief of the Netherlands East Indies army, declared today the NEI air force would "bomb hell" out of any Japanese ship attempting to obtain oil from wells captured in Sarawak, British Borneo.

Writing in the Netherlands government paper, Voice of Netherlands, published in London, he said the Japanese were draining small quantities from the Sarawak wells despite reports that the British destroyed them.

instances and as nearly as possible, be self-supporting.

"It is neither visionary nor imprudent to propose an expenditure of many million dollars, raised through long-term borrowings, provided the projects involved are wise and sound municipal investments and of a character which will result in an income return to the city.

"To my mind, it would be flirting with economic disaster if such a program is not ready for immediate adoption at the termination of the war."

However, he stressed that the chief concern now is the problem of civilian defense and he declared that Boston is "second to no other large city in the thoroughness and the efficiency of its preparations

READY FOR ORDEALS

"Our nation's strength," declared the mayor, "may well lie in the preparedness of its civilian population. If and when the test comes, I am confident that the citizens of Boston will not be found wanting.

"May I speak for those who have a fear for the fate of our city government. In its many centuries, Boston has been through scorching fires. These ordeals of the past were met, and our city went forward to live another day.

"What other generations of men and women have contended with and have conquered, we citizens of today can contend with and shall conquer. We all love our city, our State and our nation. To preserve the principles upon which they rest, we are prepared and willing to sacrifice whatever may be needed for the victory.

SET ASIDE POLITICS

"We are prepared to surrender, as may be necessary, the comforts and luxuries, perhaps some of the very necessities of life.

"We must give wholeheartedly in one united, supreme effort to perpetuate the liberties we have enjoyed and which have been guaranteed us because of the suffering, the sacrifice and the courage of those who have gone before us.

"Let us set our hearts, our minds and our every resource toward the great task before us. Let all internal or political differences be set aside."

Regarding the problems of a normal municipal life—normal, that is, in the light of no war—the mayor reminded that real estate today is carrying a disproportionate share of municipal costs, yet no alternative field of income has been opened to the city by the Legislature.

NAVY BARES HEROIC EXPLOIT OF 4 ENSIGNS

HONOLULU, Jan. 5 (AP)—A 1500-ton destroyer with four young ensigns as her officers put to sea under withering fire during the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, helped shoot down four of the invading planes and depth bombed two enemy submarines.

Details of the exploit have been released by the Navy, to join the vast collection of hero-tales which has become Navy tradition.

Three of the ensigns were reservists and the fourth just two years out of the Naval Academy. Names of the principals and the destroyers must remain anonymous for the time.

The story covering 30 hours of adventure in the lives of less than 200 men, as related by the Academy ensign and released by the Navy censor, follows:

"We were seated in the wardroom, three ensigns and myself, practically 8 o'clock on the morning of Dec. 7. Suddenly the loudspeaker telephone announced: '... Utah has been torpedoed by Japanese aircraft.'

"Immediately we sounded general quarters and manned our battle stations.

COMMANDER WAS 24

"As senior officer aboard (he is only 24) I gave orders to prepare to get under way at once. One of the reserve officers took the bridge with me, another took the guns, and the third became damage control officer.

"Five minutes later we opened against the enemy with our machine-guns. Japanese planes were diving at our ships in the harbor. Two minutes later Ensign ——— brought his large caliber anti-aircraft battery into action.

"As we moved downstream, we kept up a hot fire with our main battery and machine guns. Four planes engaged by our guns were seen to go down in smoke. Two planes that diver over us, trying to reach the battleships beyond, got it from our M. G's (machine-guns).

"Abeam Ft. Weaver, I called for more knots. The chief gave them to me.

"At 9:50 a. m. our chief radioman got a good contact on his listening apparatus. It is a sub. We maneuvered for the attack and let 'em have two depth charges. Then we regained contact and dropped two more.

"We observed a large oil-slick on the sea and bubbles rising to the surface over a length of 200 feet. First, we thought the submarine was surfacing, so Ensign ——— trained the battery to starboard to be ready for it.

"Then we knew it had been destroyed.

PRAISES COMRADES

"We'd picked up one of our heavy cruisers by this time, when suddenly a third contact was reported. Apparently it was heading for the big ship. We made an emergency turn and attacked. From our racks we loosed another pair of depth charges. When we swung around again we saw another oil-slick. We figured we'd sunk our second sub."

"From then on," the 24-year-old acting captain concluded laconically, "we screened the cruiser upon orders from that vessel."

In his report he commended his three associates and the entire crew for their "extreme heroism, courage and fine cooperation."

The destroyer's guns hurled hundreds of rounds of high-explosive shells at the Japanese marauders during the battle, plus thousands of rounds of machine-gun bullets. The youthful captain brought his ship back to Pearl Harbor without a single personnel casualty.

And when that vessel's regular captain—a lieutenant-commander—rejoined her he put the epilogue to the exploit by adding the name of his understudy to the commendation list which the latter had prepared. He summarized:

"As acting commanding officer from the commencement of the raid until the ship returned to port the following evening, he performed most commendably and efficiently in assuming prompt offensive action, conducting emergency sortie under existing trying conditions, attacking submarine contacts in offshore area, screening a heavy ship proceeding to attack a reportedly greatly superior force, and subsequently standing watch-and-watch as officer-of-the-deck for a period of 30 hours at sea."

Army Gains Two Planes as 4000 Work Day Free

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Jan. 5 (INS)—The U. S. Army Air Corps will get two speedy war planes free because nearly 4000 employes of the Fairchild Aircraft plant worked in three shifts yesterday voluntarily and without pay, as their contribution to "Remember Pearl Harbor."

Many of the employes drove miles over icy roads, coated with four inches of snow, to contribute their Sunday at full-speed work on plane production.

Work Takes Long Hours

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT
National Woman Director of Civilian Defense

WASHINGTON, SUNDAY—I had a rather long meeting here Friday evening, but the President and the Prime Minister worked even later. When the President finally decided to go to bed, the Prime Minister still decided to go into the map room and to work a little longer.

There is no question about it, when you are deeply interested, it is possible to go on working till all hours of the night. But, for the people who have to wait up till you are through, it is a deadly performance.

I was amused to look at the various people sitting out in the hall, they all looked so obviously ready for a good long sleep!

Yesterday, I spent the morning at the Office of Civilian Defense and saw a great many people. I took some of them home to lunch or I'd still be there.

In the afternoon, I went up to see Secretary and Mrs. Morgenthau's new house, which I have not had time to visit since they moved in some months ago.

Another little grandson arrived yesterday morning. It is characteristic of the times that Ruth's mother, Mrs. Googins, in wiring me of the happy event, says she is wiring Elliott at the field where he was stationed, but did I know whether he was still there? We now have twelve grandchildren and eight of them are boys, which adheres to the old tradition, that in war time, the male sex predominates.

I received yesterday a copy of a rather distressing letter which had been sent to the President by a resident of one of the South American countries.

In it, he points out how extremely careless we are in talking and writing about our impressions of Spanish America.

He mentions the fact that one of our well-known writers spent about 48 hours in each of the Latin-American countries and then wrote a book, the title of which implied that he really had intimate knowledge of these countries.

He betrays his ignorance by characterizing one of the greatest heroes of South America as an adventurer, which is tantamount to considering one of our historical figures as unimportant and lacking in any claim to fame. The South American then goes on to point out that another writer, in an article on another South American country, only talked with a few people in the main city and never saw any of the rest of the country.

I must say that a letter of this kind always makes me feel ashamed of our calm assumption that we can learn all there is to know about other people without making any real effort to understand them or their culture.

Permits to Buy Tires Held Up Till Tuesday

Thomas Joyce, Massachusetts tire rationing administrator, today ordered all tire rationing boards to withhold issuance of tire purchase permits at least until Tuesday morning, although the boards may accept applications for tires.

Continuance of the ban on tire sales was decreed because lists of the various sizes and classifications were not received from Washington until last night and the local boards must study them carefully before issuing permits, Joyce said.

Pattern 9873 may be ordered only in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 requires 1⅞ yards 35-inch fabric and 3¼ yards brain trim. To get this pattern send 15 cents to Boston Evening American, Pattern Department, 232 West 18th st., New York, N. Y. An additional 10 cents brings you our spring pattern book, ready now. Winning more friends faster than any soap made!

DUZ DOES EVERYTHING—

All 3 Kinds of Wash!

More suds—faster, longer-lasting suds—even in the hardest water!

Since the first woman got hold of this grand new granulated soap, the news has spread like wildfire. "Try DUZ for towels, they sparkle! Use it for work-clothes, it's wonderful," women say. "Yet even for slips, for nighties, it's wonderfully safe. DUZ does everything and does it grand."

It's Procter & Gamble's new kind of soap!

Yes, this new kind of granulated soap has won more friends faster than any other soap. And no wonder! Wait till you see the white, white towels hanging in the sun! DUZ does 'em up to 25% whiter than many soaps we've tested. Even with grimy overalls DUZ actually soaks dirt loose in 10 minutes. Yet—this same soap—DUZ—is far safer for colors—for hands—even for pretty rayon undies—than any of the other four leading granulated soaps.

And as for suds—just see how many more suds you get with DUZ—up to 20% more . . . Suds that build up faster—last up to twice as long. With such piles of rich, thick suds—small wonder DUZ does such a grand job on everything in your wash. And notice . . . DUZ does away with those clouds of irritating dust that make you sneeze. It's wonderfully sneeze-free. Get DUZ today.

1 "MY CHILDREN GET TOWELS FILTHY, BUT DUZ DOES 'EM EXTRA WHITE!"

2 "JIM'S WORK-CLOTHES SPARKLE NOW—IT'S SO EASY WITH DUZ!"

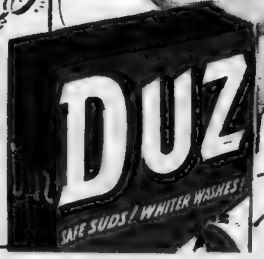
3 "DUZ KEEPS COLORS BRIGHTER—IT'S REALLY SAFE EVEN FOR PRETTY RAYON UNDIES!"

FOR DISHES, TOO— DUZ DOES EVERYTHING!

✓ QUICK! MANY MORE SUDS—SO MUCH FASTER!

✓ EASY! CUTS EVEN TOUGH GREASE—WITHOUT SCOURING!

✓ KINDER TO HANDS! THEY'LL FEEL SO SOFT AND SMOOTH!



Fashion

WHITE HAS NEVER yielded its place as the queen of beaches . . . in spite of the forays black or a new flame tint or turquoise have made for the title. And it looks as though the unfolding southern season will establish its regency again. Here's a new bathing suit of white sharkskin with deep scalloped border of sky blue, worn with a big umbrella hat of white sharkskin, at an "on the spot" show in Coral Gables. The long torso is streamlined by cutting the bodice in bands . . . and notice fullness of the skirt.—ANNICE BRINK.

SPRING HAT STYLISTS STRESSING NEW STRIPES

By BETTINA BEDWELL

IT can be stated on the best authority that boldly striped headlines will top many a fashion setup this coming spring. Hats made of striped grosgrain are made by milliners who set the styles for this nation. And they have already gone into mass production, which means there will be a supply for all pocketbooks.

As one dramatic note for your spring ensemble, this one can be most effective. It is also a romantic kind of hat, as done by Lilly Dache, who is one of our greatest milliners. Miss Dulin has sketched her model, inspired by Renoir's paintings of charming, sweet and romantic ladies in the Nineteenth Century. Made of black and pink grosgrain in radiating stripes, this swagger hat is faced with black.

NEWS FOR MODERN WOMEN

• FOOD •

By Martha Lee

WITH all the family working at the Red Cross, taking first aid courses or drilling for some sort of home defense service, meal schedules are quite likely to be upset these days and refreshments at all hours are in demand.

There's no better answer to hurried calls for food than a supply of tempting sandwiches with a cup of hot soup. It's an easy trick to make a supply of sandwich fillings with good keeping qualities, if you use quick-cooking tapioca as a binder. The tapioca holds the moisture so that the sandwiches can be made up hours ahead of time with assurance that they will be lusciously moist and fresh without being soggy.

You can keep on hand in the refrigerator a supply of slivered raw vegetables, carrots and celery, green pepper, white turnips. These are thrifty appetizers that make tempting accompaniments for sandwiches. Add any other vegetables your family likes. Cauliflower flowerets are prime favorites with some snack eaters. And, of course, watercress and radishes are always welcome.

Here's a nourishing and delicious soup that you can have ready by the time late homecomers have hung up their hats and coats.

DUCHESS SOUP

2 tbsp. quick-cooking tapioca
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 tbsp. minced onion
4 cups milk
2 tbsp. butter
½ cup grated American cheese
2 tbsp. chopped parsley

Combine tapioca, salt, pepper, onion and milk in top of double boiler. Place over rapidly boiling water and cook 10 to 12 minutes after water boils again, stirring frequently. Add butter, cheese and parsley, and cook until cheese is melted. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

To garnish soups, sprinkle with chopped parsley, a dash of paprika, a few croutons, grated cheese, or a few tiny round crackers. Or place a spoonful of whipped cream in center and sprinkle with a dash of paprika or chopped parsley.

SANDWICHES, Duchess Soup and slivered raw vegetables make a quick meal.

MINCED HAM SANDWICH FILLING

1 cup water
3 tbsp. quick-cooking tapioca
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
½ lb. boiled ham, ground
¼ cup chopped sweet pickle
1 tbsp. minced onion
1 tbsp. vinegar
1 tbsp. mayonnaise

Combine water, tapioca, salt and pepper in saucepan and mix well. Bring mixture quickly to a full boil over direct heat, stirring constantly. Remove from fire. Combine remaining ingredients in order given; add to tapioca mixture and blend. Cool. Makes 2 cups of filling.

FISH SALAD SANDWICH FILLING

3 tbsp. quick-cooking tapioca
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
⅛ tsp. paprika
1 cup hot water
1 tbsp. vinegar
1 tbsp. butter
⅓ cup mayonnaise
½ cup pickles, chopped
2 tbsp. pimiento, chopped
1 cup tuna or other cooked fish, flaked

Add tapioca, salt, pepper and paprika to water and vinegar. Cook in double boiler 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Remove from fire, add butter and cool. Add mayonnaise, pickles and pimiento to fish. Combine two mixtures. Cool. Makes 2 cups filling.

The Correct Thing

By Elinor Ames

DON'T IGNORE HUSBAND!

Of course, you enjoy your visitor's conversation, but don't ignore your husband's verbal contributions or belittle or squelch him in the presence of others!

Beauty

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL—Such prized delicacy of complexion . . . which is notably Joan Fontaine's . . . also carries with it, when the skin is dry and sensitive, a penalty of fragility. Today Arline Gould tells of a cream which is astounding and alone in its effect on the danger zones which betray age, around the eyes and mouth where lines gather, and at the throat where crepiness first shows.

INVISIBLE LUBRICATING CREAM DISPELS WRINKLES

By ARLINE GOULD

THOUGH there are such things as "invisible" night lubricating creams . . . you've probably discovered that for the most part they are too MILDLY lubricating to take care of those danger spots that betray age . . . areas around the eyes, mouth and under the jaw-line.

There is a certain unique "special treatment" cream which actually does this "disappearing act" within 15 minutes of application. It is the big news of 1942's first week, because a 4-ounce $3 size jar is to be $1. But this characteristic was not purposely developed so the application would be invisible. Oh, no. Its active ingredient is an ultra-rich natural-oil substance called "oxycholesterol" . . . and it is one of the finest wrinkle-dispellers science has ever offered.

It disappears into the skin because that's the way it works . . . and not because its creator, the famous doctor-daughter of a London surgeon, thought it would be mighty cute for you to go off to bed with your skin soft, fresh and unsmothered with grease! Of course, that's the way it acts, but the good-looks-for-bedtime is merely a by-product!

This celebrated cosmetic authority has specialized all her life on sensitive, thin skins that are on the dry side. And how successfully is attested by the fact that when she first started abroad, her American customers were doled out her hand-made, hand-packed creams, strictly labeled as to the name of the one who ordered them, and in limited quantity.

But back to those eye and throat wrinkles that are eased by the natural-oil content of the "special treatment" cream. It should be PRESSED lightly, never rubbed, around the eyes and other wrinkle-spots every night. Use it ALL OVER the face only three of four times a week.

To learn about this remarkable special on the "special treatment" cream . . . a $3 size jar for $1, available through January 17, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

VIC WALL, able sports editor of the Springfield Union, names Walter (Rabbit) Maranville as his top selection for a place in Baseball's Hall of Fame. Hugh Duffy is his second choice.

Vic's letter to this writer is as follows:

"Your idea of letting the fans voice their opinions of choices for Baseball's Hall of Fame, is a most commendable one. I would like to add my five cent's worth.

"My first choice has to be Walter Maranville, baseball's Peter Pan. Sentiment, as a Springfield product, naturally has something to do with it, but Maranville on his merits as a ball player, his great popularity and the very great good that he did for baseball certainly entitles him, I think, to one of baseball's greatest honors.

"My second choice is Hugh Duffy, a throw-back to the old days when a ball player had to be good. There were no lively balls to hit at then, but Duffy compiled an average of .438 that still stands in the record book, Ruth, Williams, DiMaggio notwithstanding.

"From there down, my selections are: Harry Hooper, my favorite ball player as a kid, Joe Tinker, Johnny Evers, Jimmy Collins, Frank Chance, Miller Huggins, Rube Waddell and Ed Delehanty."

Wilson's Great Feat

Dave Wilson accomplished his most brilliant feat as a race track handicapper when he swept the card with eight winning selections at Tropical Park on Saturday. Wilson did not require all form horses to accomplish this feat. Red Dock, one of his choices which he also released through his code book, paid $25.60.

Wilson for seven years has been the champion handicapper in New England, while he has led all other handicappers competing against him when he has been in Maryland or in Florida.

Wilson's graded handicaps are a regular feature of the Green Race Special of the Boston American.

Wilson's code book was started in 1940 and his bankroll showed a profit for that year. The Wilson bankroll was also out front in 1941 while it is off to a flying start for 1942 as a result of the victories of Red Dock and DeKalb on Saturday. The code horses are released through the Green Race Special and the Daily Record.

Win with Wilson is the most popular slogan at every race track where the ace of handicappers is naming his choices.

LOUIS KEYED UP TO TRY FOR QUICK KO OVER BAER

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (INS)—The way I interpret this thing, Buddy Baer is extremely unfortunate to be meeting Joe Louis on Friday night, with the latter fighting free of charge. Everybody who has been around Louis knows that he is likely to get lazy and careless at times, especially against opponents he does not fear or does not dislike.

He isn't cocky, merely phlegmatic and complacent, unless he can get himself steamed up. In this case, there are two angles that would seem to bode no good for young Baer.

In the first place, he is among those who have contributed to five knockdowns scored against Louis since he hit the Big Time, which might cause Louis to prepare more carefully and fight more viciously than usual.

GRAND GESTURE

Beyond that, Louis is making the grand gesture as the only champion ever to defend his title free of charge and quite naturally he will be determined to fight just that much harder to retain his crown.

They are scheduled to go 15 rounds to a decision unless somebody gets knocked out en route, and I wouldn't be surprised in the least of Buddy were carted off scarcely before he gets a chance to break a sweat. Louis, from all reports, is belaboring his sparring partners mercilessly and whipping himself into a competitive frenzy. He's poison that way.

Louis is a peculiar animal. He is at once a tremendous piece of fighting machinery and an easy-going, slow-moving fellow who admittedly tired of it all. However, he can get himself hopped up when he must, and I'm sure will give Baer a terrible lathering Friday night.

DESTRUCTIVE FIGHTER

Few persons actually realize just how destructive Louis has been through his amazing career, he already has defended his title 19 times and only two men have gone the limit with him as challengers.

Tommy Farr travelled the full 15 in Louis' first defense and Arturo Godoy duplicated that much later on. Farr never met the champion again, but Godoy did and was knocked out in eight rounds in the encore.

Through all those 19 defenses, only two men have been able to floor him—Tony Galento and this young Baer who comes back for more Friday night.

In case you are trying to figure out how this forthcoming title will end, here is how Louis made out in his previous successful 19 defenses:

Tommy Farr, won, 15; Nathan Mann, K. O., 3; Harry Thomas, K. O., 5; Max Schmeling, K. O., 1; John Henry Lewis, K. O., 1; Jack Roper, K. O., 1.; Tony Galento, K. O., 4; Bob Pastor, K. O., 11; Arturo Godoy, won, 15; Johnny Paychek, K. O., 2; Godoy, K. O., 8; Al McCoy, K. O., 6; Red Burman, K. O., 5; Gus Dorazio, K. O., 2; Abe Simon, K. O., 13; Tony Musto, K. O., 9; Buddy Baer, K. O., 7; Billy Conn, K. O., 13; Lou Nova, K. O., 6.

Do you see anything in there to indicate that Baer won't get it again?

HE'S SAFE—Slingin' Sam Baugh, thoroughly protected by his Pro All-Star mates, fades back before throwing long pass to Ward Cuff in first period against Chicago Bears in Polo Grounds. Game, football finale of the season, saw Bears win, 35 to 24.

Bears Best, But Halas Loses $6000 Proving It

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—In the name of sweet charity—and by way of proving that his Chicago Bears are just about the greatest gridiron collection ever turned loose to prowl—jumping George Halas' bankroll showed a $6000 hole today for two all-star games.

George, mind you, had a lot of satisfaction from the way those apples of his eye knocked over the National Pro-Football League All Stars two years in a row, turning in a 35-24 decision yesterday in the Polo Grounds for the second one But the red ink is getting to be quite an item.

LOST $3800 LAST YEAR

A year ago, Halas took his big Bears out to sunny California and bled $3800 of his own while turning in a 28-14 win over the All-Stars

George brought the thundering herd into the local National League ballyard yesterday because of the war, and in the process of becoming a set of mud-covered snowmen the pro league champs rolled up the biggest score ever marked up in this four-year series.

VANDERBILT URGES U. S. TURF 'CZAR' BOARD

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (INS)—Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt believes a national commission of racing men is necessary to preserve the sport during the war years and solve the many problems which must arise.

Al, turf official, famed horse owner and sportsman, sounded the call for the formation of such a group, which he would grant the same powers baseball gives to Commissioner Landis and pro football gives to Elmer Layden.

"Racing has always needed a guiding group which would have jurisdiction throughout the country," said Al, "and there were a few feeble attempts to form one in the past, but all failed.

"Now that the war has forced suspension of racing programs and all sorts of unemployment and other problems, the need for guidance is more urgent than ever.

"I propose to form a commission of men like William Woodward, New York; Marshall Cassidy, New York; James J. Dooley of Narragansett Park, New England; Carlton Burke of California, Matt Winn and Maj. Louis Beard of Kentucky and Sylvester Labrot, New Orleans, to handle the situation.

"Once it was established, racing would benefit by it, not only for the duration, but in the years to come."

SKIERS REVEL ON HILLS OF OLD NEW HAMPSHIRE

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

NORTH CONWAY, N. H., Jan. 5, via the Snow Train—Snow! Good snow! Powder snow!

St. Peter finally opened his salt shaker and sprinkled New England with a liberal serving of white flakes yesterday . . . Snow-hungry skiers at last had a feast . . . Slopes were stippled with sitzmarks and flying rigures . . . Everyone was happy.

The skiing at North Conway is excellent, and fast schussing ankle-deep in powder is possible. The various lopes at Cranmore Mountain were comfortably crowded. The skiers' roller coaster, the famous Skimobile, did a thriving business; in fact, the line of enthusiasts waiting to board the cars almost stretched back to the village at times.

Inns and hotels of the Eastern Slopes region were well filled over the New Year's holiday and past week-end. Despite the war clouds, all indications point to a big season. Skiing is a great sport to keep everyone physically fit and ready to aid in national defense.

Beaming at the arrival of the snow, Carroll Reed, genial president of the Eastern Slopes Region Ass'n and owner of smart ski shops in North Conway, Jackson, and Franconia, tells us that the schuss business is striding along.

CARROLL HAD FORESIGHT

Carroll is a veteran of many years experience, and it was he who first conceived the idea of the famous Eastern Slopes Ski School, headed by Hannes Schneider.

"Skiing is a lot of fun," he told us. "I believe that every one should go to ski school to further one's ability, but one technique is as good as another. It is the fundamentals that count.

"Instead of putting the stress on styles of skiing, skiing technique should be adapted to the individual."

This expert is a finished skier himself and knows that the sport offers "a way of living."

SNOW TRAIN SCHUSSES: Armed with skis and poles, about 400 winter sports lovers invaded the North Station yesterday morning. The crowd would have been much larger, but Boston's last-minute snowstorm kept many at home due to driving conditions, with local skiing luring others . . . We saw many old timers on the train who have been going faithfully every Sunday for the past eight or ten years. Topping the list was Barney Robinson, who has not missed a Snow Train in eleven years. He was on the first one that ran in 1931.

Other veterans aboard were Victor Poponchick, the yodelling skier who usually wears shorts; Ed Tyack, Eva Patch, Bob Howlett, Ruth Halpen, Dr. Not Canton, Peg Keough, Mr. and Mrs. Ray MacIntyre, Eddie Starr, Henry Camlott, Clarence Lund, Pearl Hess and Frances Wormwood.

Snow train styles have certainly changed. A few years ago, everyone went with skis with toe straps and overshoes. Now all are wearing streamlined outfits, expensive boots, and have cable bindings. Skiing strides along!

Pro Netmen Battle in Garden

Tennis fans will witness some bitter court battles tonight when the touring professional troup of Don Budge, Fred Perry, Bobby Riggs and Frank Kovacs moves into the Garden to continue its competitive round robin series.

In past years, invading stars merely played exhibitions but this season there's an added incentive to win with a salty sum of cash waiting the victor.

Kovacs, clown prince of the amateur ranks until suspended by the United States Lawn Tennis Association, will tangle with the veteran Don Budge in the singles matches tonight, while Bobby Riggs, another recent convert to the pros, will meet Fred Perry. Perry hasn't been in action since the first night of the show, but the British champion has been declared fit for this set.

In the doubles, it will be Kovacs and Riggs against the combination of Budge and Perry. Gene Mako, Budge's partner in the amateurs, will be on hand for a replacement in case of an injury.

KOVACS-BUDGE FEATURE

The Kovacs-Budge meeting should be the feature of the program, especially with both players shooting for the top money in the winner's pool. Leaving New York, the young upstart of the amateur circles boasted two victories over the great Budge and according to Kovacs there's no reason why he can't continue to pile up his lead.

Previous to turning pro, Kovacs had played against Budge only once, losing out as a 16-year-old novice, 6—4, 5—7, 6—4, 6—3.

Kovacs will be shooting for the 38 per cent of the pool set up by Promoter Alexis Thompson. Second prize money will be 28 per cent; third, 21, and last place award will be 15 per cent of the purse.

KOVACS HERE IN 1938

Kovacs didn't gain his title of "Clown Prince" through his failure to capture a major tennis title as an amateur but by his constant playfulness on the courts. As an amateur, he proved the top attraction in the field, with crowds watching the play hoping for an exhibition of his antics.

The 22-year-old Californian last appeared here in 1938 at the Longwood Bowl, Brookline, in the amateurs.

ALL ELIGIBLE FOR HEARST RIFLE SHOOT

Age, weight or height makes little difference in the William Randolph Hearst Citizen competition nor does occupation matter a bit.

Teams of varying ages from 18 to 60 will be entered and men from every walk of life will make up the different organizations.

A recent letter from Roy Bent who is secretary of the East Warren Rod & Gun Club in Warren, R. I., states the 12 best shots in this club average 42 years of age.

He then goes on to tell of their occupations which include a contractor, a mail carrier, a manager of an electric light sub station, a hat maker, a chauffeur, a truck driver, a carpenter, a guard, an architect and three Army men.

Entries have started to speed up. The closing date is January 30. Please notify the Rifle Editor if you are in any league when you send your blank along—if not affiliated the board will group your club with other organizations.

TED MAKINGS OF FINE SOLDIER SAYS CRONIN

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 5 (AP)—If Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox slugger, is called up for Army service he will make the United States a mighty fine soldier, said Manager Joe Cronin.

Cronin made the comment after reading that his outfielder had been ordered to report Jan. 8 for a preliminary physical examination. "He's a great boy," said the Sox pilot.

Turning to a discussion of the effect the war might have on baseball, Cronin said that "the big league managers are going ahead with their plans and we look for no interruption in the baseball program. But of course everything is subject to developments in the war situation, and what Uncle Sam wants us to do. We'll lose a player here and there, but we will work in other fellows to take their places."

The Sox already have lost three rookies to the service: Pitchers Mickey Harris and Earl Johnson and Shortstop Al Flair. Cronin, with his family, stopped here on his way to Sarasota, Fla.

Army Seen Aid to Williams; Harris, Rowell Now A-1 Soldiers

By BILL GRIMES

"Maybe they'll put me in Company B. That would be swell—you know—B there when they go and B there when they come back" sounds more like the Teddy Williams of old than anything he has been quoted as saying since his first year with the Red Sox.

It will be a tough blow for baseball when "The Kid" goes into the service but it will be the making of Teddy, who, although he is much improved, will benefit from army discipline.

Mickie Harris, the cocky left hander of the Red Sox, has taken to the army like ducks take to water . . . As has Bama Rowell of the Braves, who'll never complain unless they take away from him chewing tobacco.

Harold W. Pierce, The Country Club, will retire as a golf executive Saturday . . . He'll turn over the presidency of the U. S. G. A. to George W. Blossom of Chicago . . . You cannot convince "H. W." that this country hasn't been at war for two years . . . He knows he has and it will be a great relief for him to step down and allow George Blossom to take over.

The U. S. G. A. cannot afford to lower its standards but it will be to its advantage to "play ball" with the P. G. A. or there will not be much class to the U. S. Open championship.

KENNEDY ON COAST

Les Kennedy, Lynn, who broke into competitive golf in the "Hearst" and who finished in the "money" at Harlingen and Beaumont, is now on his way to the Coast.

Annually, Les went to St. Pete on a shoestring in order to develop his golf . . . Now, with approximately $500, he'll make the Coast deluxe.

Tom Mahan, the pro at United Shoe and his family are at St. Pete, where Alex Ellis, pro at Tedesco has been for weeks.

Reports are to the effect that Ellis is feeling better than he has in two years . . . Which is great news to all of his friends . . . Arthur Wedgeworth, Woodland, and Clark Morrow, Meadow Brook, will open a winter golf school this week at the Jordan Marsh Co.

Manager Joe Cronin weighed over 200 when he started for Sarasota, Fla., last Saturday . . . As soon as he reaches Dixie land, Cronin will go on a strict diet . . . No more midnight smacks and jelly doughnut for the boss of the Red Sox . . . At least that's his intention.

PLAYERS GATHER

There are a number of ball players at Sarasota and Johnny Orlando, boss man of the Fenway Park clubhouse, is thinking of sending Joe Cronin a uniform and some bats and balls . . . Hal Kaese, University Club, will be the underdog in the finals of the Middlesex Bowl squash rackets championship on Saturday at the Harvard club

TEDDY WILLIAMS
He'll Bat for Uncle Sam Soon

but he will not be underrated by his opponent H. Sherman Howes, Jr., Union Boat Club.

In order to be in shape for an important round robin tournament, Kaese took his racket to the minor and major baseball meetings last month and worked out at Jacksonville, Fla., New Orleans and Chicago . . . He was rewarded by two victories.

The Bruins put on a fine exhibition for the schoolboys and their coaches on Saturday at the Boston Skating Club . . . For more than an hour they displayed their wares and were given a fine ovation when Mgr. Art Ross halted the scrimmage.

After they meet the Chicago Blackhawks tomorrow night at the Garden, the Bruins will not engage in another N. H. L. for a week.

WIN HELPS CAUSE

Yesterday's snow storm altered Art Ross' plans . . . The Bruin manager was to have flown to New York but he made the trip by train . . . Win Green, the Bruins' deluxe trainer, who was in the balloon section of the U. S Navy Aviation Corps during the first World War, purchased a $1000 defense bond last Friday at the Jordan Marsh Co.

War or no war, you can bet that Connie Smythe went after Frank "King" Clancy last Saturday night in Toronto over that goal in New York which cost the Maple Leafs a ball game.

According to reports, Major Smythe has been very dignified around the Maple Leaf Gardens since he donned his uniform . . . His only recorded outburst was at Norman Lamport . . . And none should hold that against him. for Lamport comes up with some very weird rulings.

Freddie Corcoran, tournament manager of the P. G. A. is busy on the Coast . . . He has all of the details arranged for the $10,000 Los Angeles open and also has arranged for Bing Crosby and Bob Hope to tour the country playing exhibition matches . . . Unlike Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb, Crosby and Hope are good golfers and the fans would gladly turn out to see them in action on the links.

BRUINS BOW TO AMERICANS, LOSE CHANCE TO BREAK TIE

By the Associated Press

Surprises were a dime a dozen in the National Hockey League over the week-end with the Detroit Red Wings scoring 10 times while whitewashing the Montreal Canadiens and the Brooklyn Americans turning in their first triumph, 3 to 2, over the Boston Bruins since March 9, 1940.

The Red Wings beat Paul Bibeault, rookie goal tender for Montreal, four times in the first period and then added three in each of the remaining cantos to come within one tally of the league mark established by the Montreal Maroons when they beat the Canadiens in 1938.

Brooklyn switched the veteran Buzz Boll to the first line and the center came through with two goals. The deciding tally, however, was credited to Mel Hill, who was a member of the Bruin squad only a year ago.

Boston's surprise setback cost the Bruins a chance to break a first place tie with Toronto. The Leafs climbed into the deadlock Saturday night by defeating Brooklyn, 4 to 2.

Since their March, 1940, meeting Boston had denied the Americans a triumph in 11 straight games, defeating them six times last season and permitting ties twice. The Bruins won all the previous three games this season.

Just before the contest, Manager Red Dutton of the Americans sold Harvey (Busher) Jackson, for many years a great left winger, to the Bruins. Jackson was a member of the Duttonmen the past two years and previously played with Toronto for a decade. The price was announced as $7500.

Huskies' Program To Continue

Northeastern plans to carry out all its spring athletic schedules, according to an announcement made today by Prof. Edward S. Parsons, director of student activities, upon his return from the track and football conventions in Detroit.

"Apparently athletic programs will be expanded rather than curtailed in the present emergency," said Parsons. "The feeling at the conventions followed these lines, and all government representatives spoke for the expansion of physical activities.

"The colleges undoubtedly will expand their physical education programs, thus building up the entire student body rather than concentrating on athletes. This naturally will necessitate a fully geared program.

"At Northeastern we will have several special courses, including a first aid training program. Several members of our physical education department, including Herb Gallagher and Foxy Flumere, have qualified as Red Cross instructors and will handle the courses.

"For the present, however, we will proceed with our original schedules. We are resuming our basketball program this week and will carry out all our commitments. That seems the logical thing to do."

In the suit on file today in the New Jersey supreme court, Mr. and Mrs. Wellington H. Wilkins, of Shrewsbury township, N. J., charged that an automobile in which Baer was a passenger struck the Wilkins machine in Eatontown.

Driver of the car, the complaint alleged, was Jerry Casale, boxing promoter, and a passenger was Anna Griefenhain, of Lakewood, wife of Baer's training quarters. Both were named defendants. The complaint alleged Casale had driven the car "carelessly and negligently" thereby damaging the Wilkins machine and injuring Mrs. Wilkins.

Dave Wilson, Green Race Special Ace, Makes Hall of Fame

The greatest handicapper in the nation accomplished the greatest feat in handicapping when he swept the entire program of eight races at Tropical Park, Fla., Saturday.

Dave Wilson, GREEN RACE SPECIAL ace, bounded into handicapping's Hall-of-Fame with one of, if not the greatest performance on a single day's card of races.

For the past eight years, Wilson has been the leading handicapper at New England tracks. He has also led the nation leading pickers on tracks that he operates during the winter months.

Along with the incredible sweep of card, Dave released two horses in coda, Dekalb and Red Dock, Dekalb paid $3.40, Red Dock, $25.60. The coda, only two days on the new bankroll, shows a clear profit of $66.50.

It was Wilson's second daily double in two days. Friday's races saw Queen Echo, $11.20 and Sassy Mate, $8.20, in the first and second races, combining for a daily double of $60.80. He Man, his best horse on the Friday program, also scored $10.80 straight.

A flat $2 play on his horses of Friday and Saturday show a clear profit of $209.30!

A $2 straight parlay on Saturday's eight winners would come to $35,648.

Young, Cabral In 8-Round Go

Garvey "Lefty" Young, U. S. Marine who is all-Service welterweight champion, steps back into action next Friday night at Mechanic' Building when he meets rugged Fred Cabral, Cambridge, in one of three eight-round main bouts presented by the Boston Boxing Association.

A five-star bit in three previous B.B.A. shows, the Leatherneck with the violent left-hand wallop has been signed by Matchmaker Jack O'Brien to feature the opening 1942 program.

The other featured eights on the card will be Eddie Ellis, Quincy, vs. Bill Tordiglione, North End, and Sam Shumway, Webster, vs. Sailor Misco, U. S. Coast Guard.

Sixes scheduled will be Larry Paglia, Roxbury, vs. Irish Johnny Smith, Quincy, and Sal Cesario, North End, vs. Johnny Studley, Brockton.

Matchmaker O'Brien is planning to add a curtain-raising four-rounder for next Friday p. m.'s fistic festival.

Doctor Blames Diet for Babe Ruth's Illness

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Babe Ruth said her husband, who was taken ill and hurried to a hospital early Saturday morning, "was getting along just fine."

Ruth, who escaped injury in an automobile crash during the holiday, was taken to an unnamed hospital for rest. His physician said that part of the former home run king's nervous condition was due to his heavy dieting, in which the slugger lost 37 pounds in a few weeks as preparation for a movie role.

Mrs. Ruth said Babe also was suffering from a heavy cold and that he would remain in the hospital for several more days.

European Ice Star In Derby

Lovely Ariane, European figure skating sensation who is headed for the pinnacle of frozen fame, will be formally introduced to New England through the famed American-Record Silver Skates Derby at the Boston Garden on January 18.

And once again the Derby committee stags the bell with a personality who will catapult to American fame through the Silver Skates party.

In recent years the American-Record has made it a policy of taking a great European figure little known on these shores and bringing her to the front through the Derby.

Proof of the great selections is answered in the Ice-Capades where Vera Hruba and Megan Taylor are two of the brightest stars. Both these girls jumped to fame through the Derby.

ARIANE TOPS

But Ariane is the best ever—she easily tops Vera Hruba and Megan Taylor.

Only 18 years old, this little Swiss Miss has everything.

At the age of 16, Ariane swept through a field of 50 of the world's great skaters ever assembled at the famed St. Moritz resort at Switzerland and went on to win the international skating competition against the world's best.

That was in 1939.

She had no further chance for recognition. The war started and this type of competition was soon forgotten.

Ariane, however, went to London and studied under such great rink masters as Gerschwiler and Hickey. Dividing her time between war relief work and skating, the little Swiss girl was able to practice enough and skate in benefits so that she actually improved in her perfect figures.

HEADLINES 7TH DERBY

And New England will meet her Jan. 18 and acclaim her the greatest ice star to ever come to Boston.

She will headline the seventh annual Silver Skates Derby, which will be the greatest ever. Hundreds of youngsters from all over New England will battle it out for the coveted speed titles.

Entries have already really started to pour in.

If your blank hasn't been forwarded it should be sent at once.

No entries postmarked after midnight this coming Friday will be accepted.

Eagles Score 4 Goals In First Period

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Jan. 5 (AP)—The New Haven Eagles, gunning for their second win in the first period to obtain a commanding lead that was never seriously threatened, defeated Philadelphia, 6-3, in an American League hockey game before about 2500 fans at the Arena.

Norm Burns, center loaned to the Eagles by the New York Rangers, scored two of New Haven's goals in the opening period, with Don Willson and Norman Tustin contributing the others.

Mel Sheppard, Famous Track Star, Dead

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Melvin Sheppard, 67-year-old former University of Pennsylvania track star and 1500-meter champion of two Olympic meets, died suddenly yesterday at his Bayside home.

A director of the Millrose A. A., Sheppard arrived home after a conference at Madison Square Garden, where he helped plan the forthcoming Millrose games. He collapsed while talking to his wife and was pronounced dead by an ambulance physician who arrived within a few minutes.

Sheppard was born in Almanesson, N. J., Sept. 5, 1883. He started his athletic career at Brown Preparatory School in Philadelphia, winning the half-mile run for schoolboy entrants at the St. Louis Exposition in 1904.

At the 1908 Olympic games in London, Sheppard won the 1500-meter event and placed high among the individual scorers of the track and field division. He won the 1500-meters again in 1912 at the Olympics in Stockholm, Sweden.

He joined the Army before the first World War and saw service on the Mexican border. During the war he served as a captain at Fort Shelby, Miss.

Survivors include his wife, the former Estelle Simon of Almanesson, who he married 24 years ago, a son, Melvin Sheppard, Jr., who was a track and cross-country star at Princeton before his graduation in 1932, and a daughter, Mrs. Adelaide Kohler of San Francisco.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday evening in Bayside, Queens, with burial Thursday morning at Camden, N. J.

Double Windup On Mat Program

Another double windup with four of the world's leading wrestlers in action will feature Promoter Paul Bowser's weekly tournament Wednesday night at the Boston Arena.

In one of the features, "Sliding Bill" Hansen, of Salt Lake will clash with George Macricostas, white Chief Caley Saunooka, 240-pound Cherokee Indian, and Rowdy Rody LaDitzi, will tangle in the other feature.

The skirmish between Saunooka and LaDitzi should really be something to see. LaDitzi delights in roughing up his opponents but the 300-pound Saunooka is quite capable of taking care of himself.

In the semi-final, Heinie Olson will take on El Diablo, the masked mystery man,

PETITE—Ariane, toast of all Europe before the war, will be the feature attraction at the Silver Skates Derby which takes place at the Boston Garden Sunday, Jan. 18. The Swiss ice prima donna is considered by many the equal of Sonja Henie, when that famous lassie first made her debut in Boston.
